U. S. Deaths Top 600 Figure

Disastrous Holiday on Highways

By United Press International

The number of holiday traffic victims passed the 600 mark early today with delayed reports continuing in what the National Safety Council termed a "disastrous" weekend.

The council has estimated before the holiday period began at 6 p.m. local time Friday that 520 to 620 persons would be killed in highway accidents.

"It was a bad weekend," a spokesman said Monday night. "It was disastrous."

Last year, 340 persons died during the Independence Day weekend.

A United Press International count at 3 a.m. EDT showed 609 persons had died in traffic accidents.

A breakdown of accidental deaths showed:

Traffic	609
Drownings	178
Planes	18
Other	59
Totals	864

California reported 56 traffic deaths, Texas had 47, Indiana 31, Georgia 29, Florida 25 and Missouri 22.

Only Alaska, North and South Dakota and Vermont reported no traffic fatalities during the holiday period.

At least 46 persons lost their lives in accidents in New York State during the long Fourth of July holiday period.

A UPI survey during the 78-hour period showed 28 died in traffic accidents, 17 of them upstate.

Nine persons drowned, five were killed in plane crashes and four died in other types of mishaps.

Two sudden deaths in the Ulster County area were under investigation by Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp and BCI Investigator M. J. Mahoney today.

Chipp said Janos R. Ficsor, 18, of Napanoch, died suddenly Sunday while washing dishes at The Claremont resort, Route 1 Elleville.

Victim of the other death was Alexander Renovitch, 54, of Glenham, Dutchess County. He reportedly fell and hit his head on rocks in a wooded area at

The So-Hi Camp site, Town of Marbletown, early Monday. He and his wife and a group had been spending the weekend at the site.

Chipp said an autopsy disclosed Renovitch's death was due to subdural hemorrhages of the head.

During the same holiday last year, 31 traffic fatalities occurred, according to the State Department of Motor Vehicles. The record highway death toll for a 78-hour Independence Day holiday was 42 set in 1963. In 1967, when the holiday ran for 102 hours, 47 persons were killed in traffic mishaps in the state.

Fine summer weather with temperatures in the 70s and 80s prevailed across the state during most of the weekend. Eight of the drownings occurred on July 4 as tourists, vacationers and residents took to lakes, streams and rivers for boating and swimming.

In the worst accident of the weekend, three western New Yorkers perished when their light plane clipped the top of a utility pole and crashed near Machias, Cattaraugus County. Two Syracuse residents died when another private plane crashed into a Herkimer County farm field east of Utica.

Here is a breakdown of the fatalities by day:

MONDAY

Alan Gold, 23 of Brooklyn, died in a two-car crash on Route 17B in the Sullivan County town of Bethel.

Nicholas Galis, 22, of Brentwood, killed when the car he was driving hit a guard rail on the Wantagh State Parkway.

John and Lucy Volpe, Pleasantville, Westchester County; killed in traffic accident at Mt. Pleasant.

Doris Goldfuss, 45, Hermitage, Wyoming County; two-car crash in Java.

Allan Richer, 24, Adams, Mass.; motorcycle accident near Lake George, Warren County.

Paul Beckler, East Briarcliff; died in fire at Ossining.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edmund J. Britt, 84, Buffalo; fell down 30 foot embankment at summer home in town of Evans, Erie County.

SUNDAY

Diane Abia, 15, Highland Lakes, N.J.; died at St. Anthony's Hospital, Warwick, Orange County, three hours after being admitted suffering from convulsions. Authorities termed it an apparent accidental death due to a possible drug overdose.

Myles Monaghan, 48, and Margaret Sawyer, 28, both of Syracuse; killed when twin-engine plane crashed east of Utica in the Herkimer County town of Schuylers.

Jonathan Whittaker, 15, Delmar, Albany County, and Katie Wood, about 25, Ballston;

White House Session On Steel Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon called steel industry and union negotiators to the White House today to discuss contract talks threatening to aggravate the nation's inflation-unemployment problems.

The private meeting marked another step by Nixon toward personal involvement in fighting higher prices. Earlier this year he turned to "jawboning"—pressure by publicity—to spotlight what he considered excessive wage-price hikes. The White House called today's effort a "different approach."

The United Steelworkers of America, bargaining on behalf of 540,000 workers, is demanding a 31-per-cent pay boost over three years to replace the contract expiring midnight July 31. The union and the Basic Steel Industry Conference, representing the nine top firms, are expected to open talks Wednesday.

In its third and sharpest "inflation alert" in April, the President's Council of Economic Advisors said an expensive settlement would throw more people out of work and open U.S. markets to more imported steel.

The union and steel companies later voiced suspicions of possible White House moves should the Nixon administration consider a final settlement in flatatory.

USW President L. W. Abel said the administration was "singling out the worker as the fall guy," and possibly considering an attempt to impose compulsory arbitration on the union.

Abel is under strong pressure in his union, where the average wage is $3.45 an hour, to match the recent pace-setting settlements of can industry and aluminum workers.

Can workers won a 9-per-cent annual boost in benefits, and aluminum workers who had been averaging $3.60 hourly got a three-year, 30-per-cent hike.

The President's economic advisors said, "if the terms of the can industry settlement are extended to the basic metals industries, the competitive position of these industries and many of the metals-using industries will be jeopardized."

Abel has said there can be no contract extension this year. The 1968 settlement was hammered out just days before the deadline, and the union worked more than four months without a contract in 1965.

Meanwhile, with the ring-up on the congressional register holding at "no sale," President Nixon is off to Missouri today to make another regional pitch for his top domestic proposals.

The President and Mrs. Nixon departed the White House for a meeting in Kansas City with news executives from 13 states.

The hour-long conclave, as have such meetings elsewhere, was expected to focus on the administration's scheme revenue sharing, welfare reform and government reorganization.

Although Nixon recently told a similar group of media officials in Rochester, N.Y., that Congress is going to pass each of those proposals because of the pressure of a "taxpayers' revolt," prospect remain dim.

A White House advance man said the President also would discuss family-health problems, growing drug addiction, and pollution.

The Nixons were to fly on to San Clemente, Calif., later in the day for a two-week stay at the Western White House.

Several administration officials preceded the chief executive into Kansas City for advance briefings, including a midday news conference by Herbert Klein, director of communications; Donald Rumsfeld, assistant for domestic programs; Clark MacGregor, congressional liaison chief, and William Ruckelshaus, head of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Invitations were extended to editors and other communications leaders from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Louie Armstrong Is Dead at Age 71

NEW YORK (UPI)—Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, the gravel-voiced singer and jazz trumpeter, died today at his home. He was 71.

Armstrong, only recently released from Beth Israel Medical Center after a long siege of kidney and heart trouble, had been practicing an hour a day on his gold-plated trumpet for a return to work.

His death at his home in the Corona section of Queens was announced by Bill Doll Associates, his publicists.

"Louie died quietly at his home at 5:30 a.m. today," the spokesman said.

Armstrong had entered Beth Israel Hospital March 15 in critical condition. After several setbacks, which forced doctors to perform tracheotomy and place him in a respirator, he regained his strength.

The hospital was deluged with mail for the New Orleans-born jazz great and President Nixon sent a telegram which Armstrong taped to his door.

"I had a list of things wrong with me so long I couldn't see how one cat could have so many and get over them," he said after his discharge from the hospital. "I guess I'm an old cat you can't lose."

Armstrong was born July 4, 1900, the son of a housemaid and a turpentine factory worker. He grew up on Perdido Street in New Orleans where jazz was born.

"We were poor and every-thing," he recalled later, "but music was all around you. From collectors' items worth hundreds of dollars, trumpet, his gravel voice, the music he did much to create and conquered the world.

"Before Louis appeared on the scene, jazz trumpet was a pretty conventional affair, with its roots very strongly in marching band music," one critic wrote. "Louis changed all that. He brought flair, a sense of style, to the horn."

He opened horizons in all directions which jazzmen on all instruments and vocalists as well—are still exploring. Along with Duke Ellington, he's probably the most important single figure American popular music has ever produced.

His records, dating to 1923, number in the thousands. Many of the earlier ones were collectors' items worth hundreds of dollars.

dreds of dollars.

IT'S OFFICIAL—After witnessing certification of the 26th amendment which gives 18-year-olds the right to vote, President Nixon appears to be campaigning for their vote. Actually the Chief Executive is shaking the hands of members of "Young Americans in Concert" which performed at the White House ceremonies, the group is made up of boys and girls between 15 and 20 years-old from nearly every state. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Kingston About to Return To Dog Control Business

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The city of Kingston will be back in the dog control business, shelter, truck and catcher, needing only the approval of the Common Council which meets in regular session tonight at city hall.

A resolution, sponsored by both the Laws and Rules Committee and the Finance, Ways and Means Committee, will ask that some $5,300 be transferred from the "contract" account of the animal control section of the budget to "personal services" and "other expenses" of that account.

City Clerk Louis F. DeCicco will be authorized to establish a temporary animal shelter and hire temporary personnel in order to enforce the city's dog ordinance.

The "contract" referred to in the resolution had been with the Ulster County SPCA was paid $10,000 a year, or $833.33 per month, to act as the city's controller of its animals.

The SPCA has submitted a voucher for its services in May, noting in its report that 20 dogs were taken into custody and housed at the humane society's headquarters on Brabant Road in the Town of Ulster.

City Clerk DeCicco, in the meantime, has written to Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, seeking a meeting between city and county officials to discuss the animal control problem in the absence of the SPCA. The contract with the SPCA canceled on July 1.

Also on the Council's agenda is a request from Pine Street Professional Park Inc. at 144 Pine for a zoning change from its present 0.2, limited office use, to C-3, general commercial use.

The doctors and dentists in that building ask the zoning change in order to set up a pharmacy and a laboratory and "any other commercial purposes allied with and ancillary to professional practices conducted on the premises."

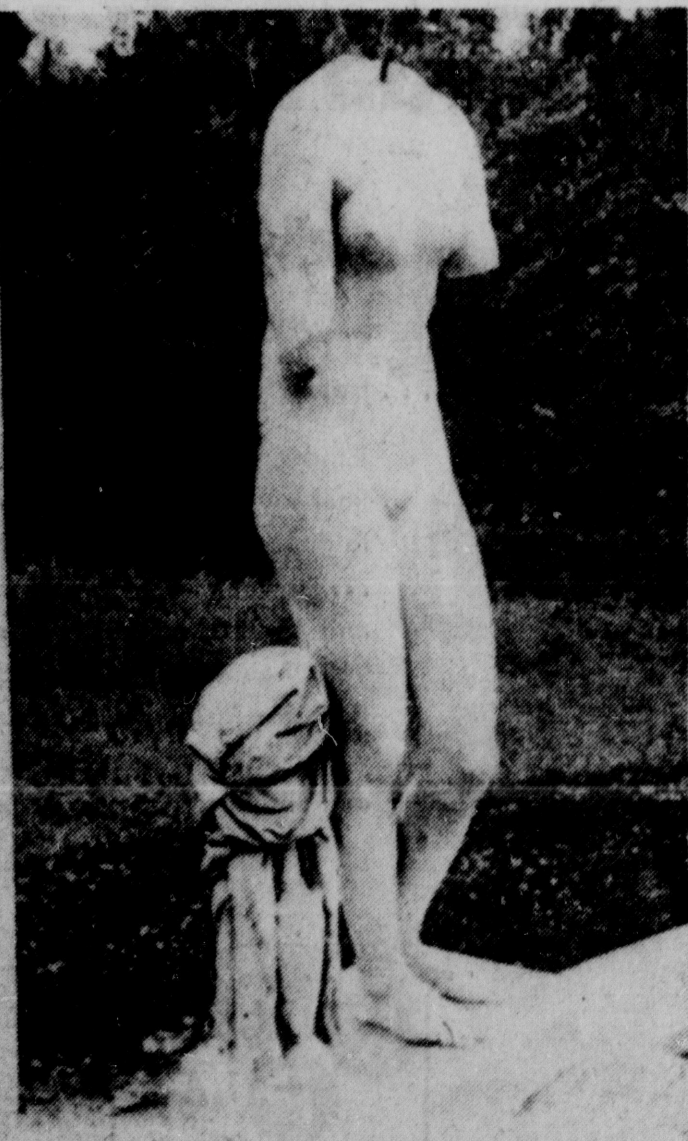

Mayor Francis R. Koenig has forwarded a petition from residents on Greenkill and Wilbur Avenues asking that commercial and truck traffic be banned from those streets. There are 28 signatures on the petition which will be referred to the Traffic Committee of the Council.

The Traffic Committee will also receive from the mayor a request to make permanent certain revisions in the uptown parking pattern. Koenig, by executive order last month, set up loading zones on Fair Street, North Front Street and John Street. Noting that the plan "proved most beneficial" for all concerned, both businessmen and patrons, Koenig asks that the Traffic Committee enact legislation making the change permanent. Koenig has issued another executive order keeping the plan in effect for 30 more days, allowing the aldermen time to consider it.

HEADLESS TREASURES—The statue of Venus (right) and another 17th century copy of a Greek original were decapitated by art thieves last week in the latest of a series of sculpture thefts which have been plaguing Rome's parks. These statues, and two others which were also vandalized, are in the Berghese Gardens. The thieves are believed to sell the heads on the art black market for about $5,000 each. (UPI CABLEPHOTO)

Heated Criticism for City On Rice, Lawton Actions

KINGSTON

The city of Kingston has drawn heated criticism from the National Recreation and Park Association which could lead to future curtailment of federal and state funds for the city's recreation programs particularly in the area of park construction and physical improvement.

The NRPA, headquartered in Washington, D.C., terms itself "the nation's largest non-profit service and research and education organization in the park and recreation field."

That organization has taken exception to the city of Kingston's turning back to their owners of the Rice property on Wurts Street and Lawton Park off the Boulevard.

action of the city of Kingston to deprive its citizens of park and playground areas by its inexcusable action in conveying back to the original owners the area known as Rice Park."

Mayor Koenig asked his reaction to the NRPA letter by The Freeman, said, "Those parks (Rice and Lawton) weren't used. It takes money

If you have money you can do wonders. The parks we have put money into are getting used."

Koenig said he would refer the letter to the Recreation Commission.

The letter ends by stating, "If your city is so richly endowed with park resources that it can afford to give away vital areas, it obviously will have little need for state and federal financial assistance for recreation, park and open space purposes."

There is a direct connection between the NRPA and the city of Kingston: Sidney Lutzn, the city's first superintendent of recreation (1936-1946) is director of communications and development for the association.

Lutzn said that the NRPA has a close working relationship with all federal and state agencies that administer park and recreation funds. Dr. Wurts Street area residents Sal J. Prezioso, former director of NRPA, is now state commissioner for parks and recreation. Lutzn was director of the New York State Division of Youth program for 23 years before going to the NRPA three years ago.

Lutzn said that Lawton Park was originally developed during the administration of Conrad J. Heiselman. The WPA spent more than $125,000 in the park, Lutzn said, which included a picnic platform made of bluestone, a night sidetrunk which attracted hundreds, a platform where Sunday vesper services were held. "That place used to be jammed," Lutzn said.

That place is now zoned R-6 for multiple apartments. The Rice property is the planned site for a new post home for Joyce-Schirick VFW Post 1386. Court action by a group of park and recreation funds. Dr. Wurts Street area residents Sal J. Prezioso, former director of NRPA, is now state com-

Rocky Invites Assemblyman

Bell Attends Signing Session

ALBANY — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller invited Assemblyman H. Clark Bell to New York City today to witness the governor's signing of legislation creating physician's assistants in the state. The bill was carried in the Assembly as part of the governor's legislative program by Assemblyman Bell. Rockefeller said he considered it a major piece of legislation to come out of the 1971 session.

The signing took place at the governor's New York City office just after noon. Two more bills sponsored by Bell also have been signed by Rockefeller.

One is an important measure which revamps the unemployment insurance rates which employers in New York State must pay in compliance with new federal regulations. Under provisions of the measure, the tax base is raised from $3,000 to $4,200.

Assemblyman Bell explained that if the state law had not been amended so as to collect a state unemployment insurance tax on the new $4,200 tax base, the employers would have been required to pay the difference to the federal government and it would have caused a great financial hardship on many of them.

The other measure involves a private sale of land by the state to an Ulster County couple, Assemblyman Bell explained that the couple has been paying real estate taxes for 37 years on property adjacent to their home thinking it was part of their side lawn when it actually was state property.

An important schedule of meetings is also on the assemblyman's agenda.

On Wednesday he will attend the Temporary State Commission on Water Supply Needs in Southeastern New York meeting for Dutchess County. Bell is vice chairman of the commission.

The meeting will concentrate on water supply problems in the county and will include field trips to the City of Poughkeepsie Water Treatment Plant, and the progress of obtaining Hyde Park site of the proposed new population figures as a result of the 1970 census.

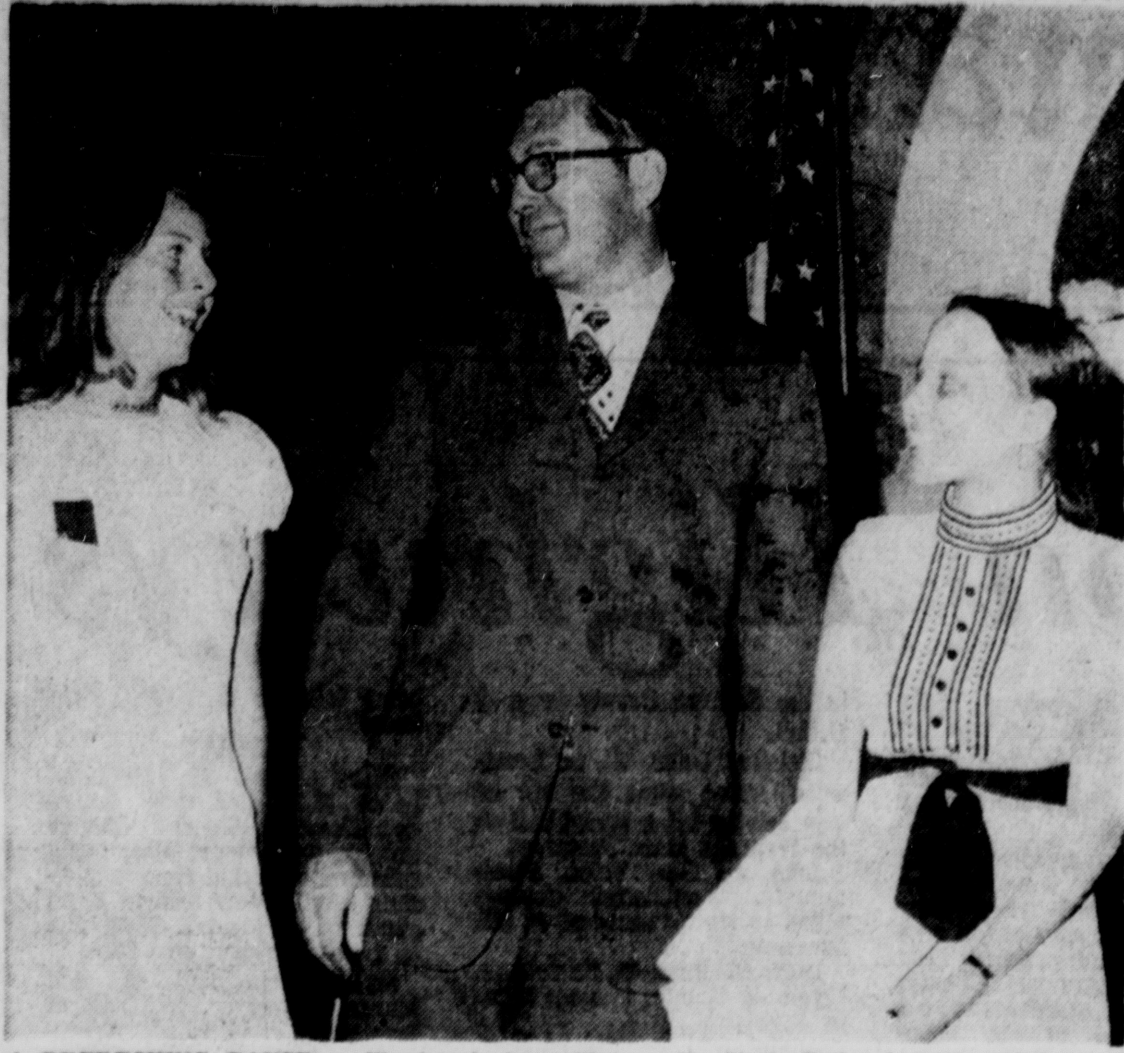

New York City plant, the Poughkeepsie Transmission System, and New York City's Chelsea Pumping Station.

On Monday, July 12, Bell will begin two days of legislative meetings at The Capitol in Albany. On Monday he will attend a meeting of the Assembly Committee on Reapportionment to discuss recent Supreme Court decisions on reapportionment made at this time.

The Assembly is expected to hold a special session late this year to consider reapportionment.

On Tuesday Bell will participate in a special Assembly "mini-session" called by Speaker Perry B. Duryea. Appointments to Assembly committees and sub-committees will be made at this time.

Five Persons Injured; Police Cite Car Drivers

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON — Five persons including a 3-year-old boy were injured shortly after 6:35 p.m. Monday when the cars in which they were riding went out of control and veered off Hurley Avenue near the Stony Run Apartments. Police cited both drivers.

The vehicles were driven by Marion Ostrander, 53, of Box 154, Route 3, Kingston, and Alfred Briody, 22, of R.D. 1, Box 568-A, Cedar Grove, Saugerties. The two men were booked for operating motor vehicles at speeds not reasonable and prudent. The summonses are returnable in City Court.

Ostrander sustained head injuries, and Briody received minor injuries. Others injured were Doris Ostrander, 56, who suffered lacerations of the head. Alana Briody, 23, who was treated for injuries of the right elbow and both knees, and Alan Briody, 3, who received knee injuries. The five were taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance Service.

According to police reports, both vehicles were west bound on Hurley Avenue, passing each other at intervals until the cars neared a curve. At that time both vehicles were traveling side by side, police said, and the drivers failed to negotiate a curve. Both cars went off the highway, authorities noted.

Meanwhile, two youngsters were injured in separate accidents that occurred over the weekend.

Gerald Van Steenberg, 13, of 549 Delaware Avenue, reportedly suffered a broken arm at 5:30 p.m. Saturday when a mini-bike he was operating in Kingman Park collided with an automobile. He was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance Service.

Another accident occurred at the Ashokan Reservoir Saturday evening. Doctor's Ambulance took Karen Hoffman, 8, of Burlington, N.J., to Benedictine Hospital. She reportedly was injured when she toppled down an embankment. The girl suffered a fracture of the left leg.

The same ambulance service reported they took Miss Pat Seaman, 19, of Huntington, L.I., to Benedictine Hospital Monday afternoon, following a traffic accident on Route 28 at Route 375, Town of Hurley. She was treated for head and chest injuries.

Dutchess Drug Arrests

DOVER PLAINS — Stopped for a routine check on Route 22 in the Dutchess County Town of Northeast at 2:30 p.m. Monday, two men from Maine were later arrested by Trooper J. M. Hulihan on charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs sixth degree — marijuana and possessing a narcotic implement — a syringe.

The two were booked as Richard Shuman, 23, and Daniel LaLiberte, 22, both of Portland, Me. Arraigned before Northeast Town Justice Martin Lewis the pair pleaded innocent and were committed to the county jail in Poughkeepsie in lieu of $250 bail each. Hearing was adjourned until a later date.

State Police Sergeant G. E. Wilcox said the car in which the two men were riding when stopped by Hulihan had been reported stolen in Maine. Authorities in that state have been notified of the arrests and recovery of the 1969 vehicle.

Police reported that the defendants will face other charges involving the stolen car.

Jersey Mayor, 7 Are Convicted

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Jersey City Mayor Thomas J. Whelan and seven other Hudson County political figures were convicted Monday of extorting thousands of dollars from contractors and plotting to extort millions more.

The prosecutor said the verdicts showed "you can fight City Hall—and win."

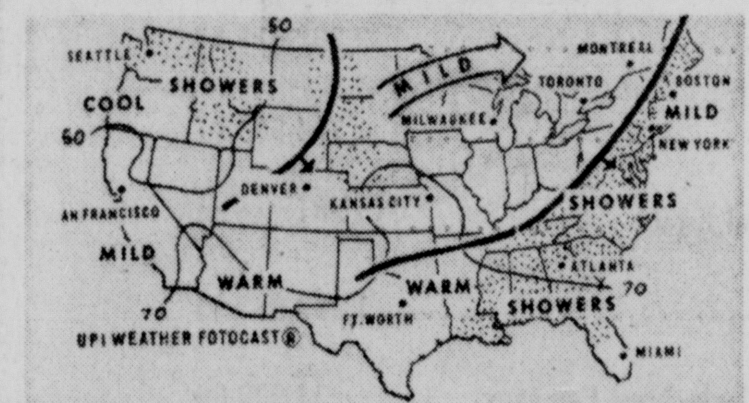

The forces of corruption and venality in the public service, no matter how powerful, can be overcome," said U.S. Attorney Herbert Stein. "Our system of government can be cleansed from within."

Seven of the defendants, including Whelan, were convicted on all 29 counts of the indictments—27 counts of extorting $168,000 from three companies and two counts of participating in a $3.3 million extortion conspiracy.

All eight could receive $10,000 fines and 20 years in prison for each extortion count and $5,000 fines and 10 years for each conspiracy count. The nine-man, three-man federal court jury deliberated three hours and 35 minutes, capping a seven week trial.

All the defendants were part of the powerful political machine led for 22 years by John V. Kenny, former Jersey City mayor and Hudson County Democratic leader. During the trial dozens of witnesses described requests they had received for kickbacks from officials of Jersey City or Hudson County.

Doubt Return to Main Body

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — High officials of the Teamsters and the United Auto Workers, the nation's two largest unions, have dashed cold water on speculation that they may soon return to the main body of American labor—the AFL-CIO.

Although officials close to AFL-CIO President George Meany have indicated interest in taking back the two unions, which would swell the labor federation's ranks to more than 17 million, the Teamsters and Auto Workers appear in no hurry to pick up the welcoming bid.

"We can't afford it," said president Leonard Woodcock of the Auto Workers, who was here to address the Teamsters' convention.

Woodcock said his union still is in serious financial trouble from the General Motors strike and that it had stopped paying its five cents per member dues—$65,000 per month—to its alliance for Labor Action with the Teamsters.

"If we can't afford a nickel, we can't afford a dime," said Woodcock, referring to the 10 cents per member monthly dues of AFL-CIO unions.

The Auto Workers quit the AFL-CIO three years ago in a leadership quarrel between their late president, Walter P. Reuther, and Meany. The UAW later formed the Alliance with the Teamsters, expelled from the AFL-CIO in 1957.

The way was cleared for the Teamsters' return to the AFL-CIO—if they want to go back—when James R. Hoffa sent his resignation as Teamsters president from his prison cell two weeks ago.

Hoffa was automatically succeeded as Teamsters president by General Vice President Frank E. Fitzsimmons, who is expected to be elected to a five-year presidential term Thursday.

Fitzsimmons and Meany met privately recently in the first such get-together between top officials of the two organizations since 1957. Both insisted they discussed only a plan to work out a jurisdictional battle over organizing California farm workers.

Fitzsimmons reportedly has also told other Teamsters officials to stop speculating about any early return to the ranks of the AFL-CIO.

If the Teamsters with more than 2 million members and the Auto Workers with 1.4 million ever do return, it will swell the 13.6 million-member AFL-CIO to more than 17 million.

Burger Rejects An Expanded Court

rejected Monday the idea to expand the Supreme Court from its present nine members, but suggested several measures to ease the number of cases facing the overburdened court.

"Either the quantity or the quality of the work of the Supreme Court must soon yield to the realities," Burger said in his second annual "State of the Judiciary" message to the American Bar Association (ABA).

Burger also said the public must be protected from exploitation by a small minority of lawyers and told the legal profession to "sternly regulate itself from within" if it wants to avoid outside regulation.

The ABA, meeting in its 94th annual convention, scheduled public hearings today on resolutions facing the group. Trial procedure was a chief topic expected to be discussed.

"We cannot keep up with the volume of work and maintain a quality historically expected from the Supreme Court," Burger said. "Nine justices must now deal with approximately 4,000 and more filings each year as compared with 1,100 in 1940 and 1,300 in 1950."

To ease the high court's load and speed the judicial process in general, Burger suggested enlarging the supporting staff of the Supreme Court, eliminating juries in civil cases and using a single lawyer to carry a criminal case from trial through appeal.

He dismissed enlarging the number of Supreme Court justices, saying, "the judicial function must be performed by nine justices."

Since his first such address to the ABA a year ago in St. Louis, Burger said some progress had been made in the improvement of the administration of justice—"not enough, but some."

Burger said the legal profession has not shown that it can regulate itself as any profession should be able to do.

And he'll save more now on his new Oldsmobile!

Bud knows it's time for Olds dealers to clear their stocks of '71s! And now you, too, can move up to a big, beautiful Delta 88 with "G-Ride," and save big money in the bargain. With automatic transmission, power steering and power front disc brakes now all standard... plus the best deal of the year... it's an unbeatable value now—and when you trade it in. You can get comparable bargains on Cutlass models. Ninety-Eights—Value-Rated used cars, too. So hurry in, while the picking is best!

There's a smart time to save on anything. Now's the smart time to save on an Olds.

Smart buyers will like what Olds has done for cleaner air, too.

Every '71 Olds—regardless of engine size and horsepower—is designed to run efficiently on no-lead, low-lead or regular gas. Score one for cleaner air!

Every '71 Olds carburetor is computer-adjusted to provide excellent performance with minimum emissions—then sealed to keep it that way. The idle mixture should never need readjustment.

Every '71 Olds has a new ignition timing system that reduces exhaust emissions up to 30%. It retards or advances the spark on signal from the transmission—automatically!

Every '71 Olds has a sealed fuel system that prevents emissions by evaporation, too. Vapors are trapped by special controls—stored and recycled for burning off by normal combustion.

These are some of the things we've done. What you can do is observe regular maintenance procedures to help keep your car working at peak efficiency—and buckle up, for safety's sake.

Louis Gigante who offered prayers for the success of the camp which will host some 200 children beginning today. Father Gigante also offered prayers for Colombo's recovery. Some 200 persons attended the dedication ceremonies. (Freeman photo by Powell).

New Postal Union For Kingston Workers

KINGSTON — A new union for postal workers in Kingston became a reality last week, the same day the new United States Postal Service came into existence. The new American Postal Workers Union, AFL-CIO will be the largest postal trade union in the world embracing more than 300,000 members of five existing unions in the Postal Office Department. Maurice Linder, president of Kingston Local 4770 of the United Federation of Postal Clerks, AFL-CIO, said creation of one big postal union was ratified by nearly 96 per cent of the members of the five unions in a nationwide referendum last month. The 65-year-old United Federation of Postal Clerks spearheaded the merger during a campaign that started more than a decade ago, Linder said. But the upcoming changes in postal management clearly spurred union members into final action.

KYSERIKE — the final year of his third term. Elected vice-president of the school board was Julian Bartle. John Basten was again named clerk of the board; Mrs. Ann Van Demark was reelected treasurer and Mrs. Edith Van Aken was renamed tax collector for the school district. Van NewKirk will resign his post effective July 16 to pursue his doctorate degree at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va. He is presently employed at the State University College at New Paltz in an administrative post. A committee, meanwhile, has been set up to search for a replacement for Van NewKirk, who has one year left in his term of office. A number of other positions were filled, including: Mrs. Margaret Lester, purchasing agent; Robert Robertaccio, school lunch program coordinator and federal aid coordinator and Thomas Plunkett, legal advisor. Of that total, $71,000 comes from the Regents Scholarships, while $232,000 was won in Scholar Incentive Awards. Nineteen students won scholarships while 97 won scholar incentive awards. Horace Sarr of High Falls was elected president of the Rondout Valley Board of Education, replacing Jack Van NewKirk, who has announced his intention to retire from the board. The senior member of the school board, Sarr has served for eight years and is now in

North Dutchess Merger Of Methodist Churches

RHINEBECK — Members of the Rhinebeck United Methodist Church and the Rhinecliff United Methodist Church have voted unanimously to join together to form the Rhinebeck Memorial United Methodist Church. The Rev. George Czar, Superintendent of the Hudson East District of the New York Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church, presided at both church meetings. The Rev. George Hilton is pastor of both churches, which will effectively merge Jan. 1, 1972. A further development had the two churches concurring that negotiations with the Rhinebeck Historical Society begin. There have been some statements made in support of the Society obtaining the Rhinecliff church building as a meeting place and museum. If this transaction does not occur, it was the consensus of the two churches that the Rhinecliff church be demolished as soon as possible after the effective merger date. Application to the State Supreme Court must now be filed to legalize the action under the Religious Corporations Law.

Court Date For Youth on Stabbing Charge

KINGSTON — A 18-year-old youth was scheduled to appear Wednesday before City Judge Hubert A. Richter to face a second degree assault charge that stemmed from investigation of a report stabbing on lower Broadway. Martin Wells of 21 Abel Street, was accused of cutting Johnny Walker, 33, of 23 Broadway during a fight, according to police. Walker was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment of cuts of the face. He later was released. Bail for Wells was set at $500 by Judge Richter. The alleged incident occurred Sunday night. In other police weekend activity, Dennis M. Showers, 20, whose address was listed as 18 Oak Street, this city, was taken into custody on warrants charging him with failure to appear in City Court to face traffic violations that included making a left turn on lower Wurts Street during restricted hours and failure to change his address on a driver's license.

Power Blackout — BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—One-third of this city of 8 million persons was blacked out for more than two hours Monday night when an electric substation failed. Hospitals, police stations, subways and the central post office were affected. UPI news correspondent Henry Ackerman's wife beat the blackout by a few minutes. She gave birth to a baby girl at a local hospital shortly before the lights went out.

The conference will run from August 23 through September 3, and will be open to teachers, guidance counselors, college and industrial security officers, law enforcement officers and the public. Further information can be obtained by contacting the International Narcotic Enforcement Officers Association at 178 Washington Avenue, Albany.

Local Church Opposes OTB

KINGSTON — The Rev. Donald T. Buddle, moderator of the Session of the First Presbyterian Church of Kingston, has forwarded a letter to Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, expressing the group's opposition to legalized gambling in Ulster County. The Rev. Mr. Buddle stated in his letter: "The Session of the First Presbyterian Church of Kingston goes on record as being opposed to Off-Track betting for Ulster County, as it would prey upon the weaknesses of the people to support governmental expenditures. "The Session, this parish's governing board, also expressly provide a referendum so that the people of Ulster County may express their judgement concerning Off-Track betting."

Rochester Town Changes in Zoning Field

The Rochester Town Board adopted several changes to the town's zoning ordinance following a public hearing held recently. The changes stipulate that single house trailers used as a one-family dwelling will now be dealt with in the same fashion as a one family dwelling, with the exceptions that a full foundation and registration of trailer homes are no longer required. In other matters discussed at the meeting, it was announced that the town's equalization rate has been dropped from 24 to 21 by the New York State Board of Equalization and Assessment. Specifications for two trucks equipped with sanders are being prepared for bids, which will be opened at the August 5 meeting of the Town Board.

Banks Aim for More Mortgages

KINGSTON More than $12.5 million has already been committed to low and middle income housing mortgage investments by the Thrift Associations Service Corporation.

H. Van Wyck Darrow, executive vice-president of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston and a director of TASCO, also stated that there are proposals for $15 million in process for a variety of projects throughout the state.

TASCO is comprised of 62 savings and loan associations in New York State, and their $4.2 billion in assets represent more than one-third of the total assets of all the New York State Associations.

In explaining the concept of the service corporation, Darrow said recently, "We can funnel the investible funds of participating savings and loans into housing projects more efficiently than they can do acting independently because the size and paper work complexity of government-supported housing projects make participation difficult for individual associations, particularly the smaller ones."

The primary reason for TASCO's formation, continued Darrow, was the realization of many savings and loan officials throughout the state that a way must be found to channel the industry's assets into areas where housing was in a state of crisis. TASCO has now been in service since July, 1970.

City Optometrist Studies in Mexico

KINGSTON Kingston optometrist Stephen Scher has left for Mexico where he will spend the next six years studying medicine and surgery at the University of Guadalajara.

Scher had his own practice at 38 North Front Street. That practice will now be under the guidance of his father, optician Irving Scher, with assistance from Dr. Milton Chasin. Dr. Robert Weber will also join the Scher practice in August.

Although Scher gave up his practice in Kingston in favor of medical studies in Mexico, he will be returning to this area on a regular basis to visit friends and family. Scher is now residing in Guadalajara with his wife, Sandy and their two children, who will be attending a bilingual elementary school. The elder Scher, meanwhile, has promised a continuation of the "excellent service" of his son's former practice.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 6, 1971

Muskie, Kennedy and Nixon

The most recent Gallup poll shows the Democratic party leaders' preferences pretty well established. They prefer Muskie, Humphrey, Kennedy, Jackson and Mills, in that order, with Muskie almost getting the vote of as many as preferred the next four. Trailing behind and almost out of sight are McGovern, Bayh, Hughes, Lindsay and others. That is the way the pros, who have a lot to do with electing delegates, feel.

The rank-and-file Democrats, tested at the same time, have an entirely different view. Whereas Kennedy is a poor third with the pros, he is tops with the party's rank and file. He leads, with Muskie, Humphrey, McGovern, Lindsay and others following. Jackson and Mills did not show in this list, an indication that they are yet to make an impression on the party rank-and-file.

Looking on confidently is Attorney General John N. Mitchell, who managed the 1968 campaign that put Nixon in the White House. Mitchell is expected to lead the 1972 campaign for his reelection. Mitchell makes no secret of his belief that, no matter who the Democrats nominate, the President will win re-election.

"The President inherited one of the unholy messes that ever existed in this country and has set about putting the government in order," Mitchell said. The war is bottoming out, unemployment is related to the number of people taken out of the armed forces, the crime rate is turning around, and in a substantial number of major cities has actually decreased.

The situation in both major parties is beginning to jell.

Ides of July

As if the country didn't have enough troubles on its hands, the first two weeks of July finds tens of thousands of workers poised for strikes on the docks, in the copper industry and in the telephone industry. And right beyond, the steel workers are poised to stop work at the end of July and the coal miners in September.

Nothing less than a wage and price freeze will halt these newest assaults on the inflation front, and there is hardly a hope that there will be a freeze. Lacking a freeze, the best that management can expect, in view of the aluminum industry settlement, is gains in productivity and operating efficiency to offset part of labor's new costs.

The demands the unions are making cannot help but push inflation higher. The dock workers on the Pacific Coast want a 37 per cent wage increase, a $500 a month pension, a guarantee of 40 hours work or pay a week and other contract gains. Their contract expires June 30.

Copper workers' contracts also run out June 30. They want the same terms as the aluminum workers, a 31 per cent wage increase over three years, a cost-of-living escalator clause, an increased pension, and other gains.

The half million telephone workers have set a strike date for July 14. They want a 25 per cent increase in the first year of a 5-year contract.

A summer of labor-management confrontation will not do the economy any good and is most likely to boost inflation still higher.

Delaware Shows the Way

The second smallest state in the Union is showing the way in ecology. Choosing open spaces rather than big business, Delaware has decided to prohibit any further heavy industry along its coasts and to ban off-shore oil and coal transfer to terminals that had been planned for Delaware Bay.

Uncompromising legislation, apparently the first in the nation, was opposed by the U.S. Treasury and Commerce Departments. It was in reaction to proposed industrialization of more of the state's 100-mile Delaware Bay coast and the building of two shipping facilities in the bay itself. It also protects the state's 25-mile Atlantic Coast, where resorts attract hundreds of thousands annually.

The upper Bay is heavily industrialized. Wilmington, the state's largest city, is the site of the duPont industrial empire, the state's biggest employer. Conservation groups lobbied against further industrialization, partly from the fear that more industry would bring air and water pollution, as well as a simple choice to save more land for recreation and tourism rather than for industry. Conservationists showed how to beat big business.

Since a congressional committee estimated that between 30,000 and 40,000 soldiers are hooked on heroin, the Defense department appointed Col. Everett G. Hapson, A.F. ret., to coordinate the battle on drug abuse in the armed forces. It is a battle that carries into civilian life.

The Scandinavian countries have compulsory identification numbers allotted to each citizen, representing birth date, sex and serial number, for ease in registering people. Israel also has adopted the system and West Germany is proposing it. Our Social Security numbers serve much the same purpose for most people.

"... And We'll Supply You with a Seeing Eye!"

David Lawrence Says Nothing New in Peace Plan Offered by Communists

WASHINGTON—Apparently convinced that they have the Nixon Administration influenced now by antiwar sentiment inside and outside of Congress, the communists at the Paris Peace Conference have proposed that the United States set a date for the complete withdrawal of all its troops and that North and South Vietnam be permitted to establish their own system of reunification.

Far from being a friendly proposal, it would also make the United States liable to pay an indemnity "for the losses and the destructions it has caused" in the North and South. Military alliances would not be permitted in South or North Vietnam or bases for foreign military forces sanctioned.

The whole seven-point peace plan by the communists indicates that there is really nothing new being offered and that they believe the time will be ripe for them to carry out the objective of taking possession of South Vietnam the moment American forces are withdrawn.

Speeches and resolutions heard in the American Congress as well as activities by antiwar groups in the United States have doubtless led the communists to assume that the Nixon Administration will not decline the current peace offer or will agree to the proposals with some slight modifications.

Spokesmen for the State Department take an opposite point of view. They indicate that the Administration is not willing to accept a government imposed by the communists even if it is described as a "coalition." President Nixon has insisted that the Saigon government can be changed only through free and democratic elections. Ronald Ziegler, press secretary for the President, said:

"We will accept no arrangement that will turn the 17,000,000 South Vietnamese over to the communists."

Some officials think that, while parts of the plan proposed are unacceptable, it will be the continuing of a long and difficult negotiation. Unquestionably, the communists are holding American prisoners of war as hostages. The Hanoi government will not divulge all their names, and there is no way of knowing how many really are in its hands. The House Republican whip, Leslie Arends, of Illinois, declares that "if they're sincere about wanting peace, they'll start releasing prisoners now instead of holding them as pawns." He opposes a unilateral withdrawal because he feels the communists cannot be trusted to release all the prisoners.

Other members of Congress who have been pushing to fix a date for complete withdrawal of American Forces are beginning to talk about reviving measures to curtail the use of funds unless American troops are pulled out of Vietnam by a certain date. This, of course, will be read with satisfaction in Hanoi.

The Communist proposal provides that the release of American prisoners will start when the United States has set a date for complete withdrawal of all its troops, but doesn't fix any schedule for their return. If the withdrawal date arrives, and the North Vietnamese should decide to mount a major offensive against the South Vietnamese or to hold the prisoners a longer time, there would not be much that the United States could do about it. The entire proposal puts most of the burden on the American Government.

A cease-fire between American and Communist forces is contemplated under the new plan as soon as an agreement is reached on the withdrawal of foreign troops from South Vietnam. But a cease-fire between the Communists and the South Vietnamese would not take effect until after a coalition government in Saigon is agreed upon. In other words, the South Vietnamese probably would have to accept Communist domination and virtually give up their arms.

As for the continued presence of the North Vietnamese in South Vietnam, this presumably is to be negotiated between the South and the North. There is no certainty just when any such "unification" would ever be attained.

In Search of the Long Green—or the Quest Eternal

The fascinating piece of paper is money. Men rob themselves of youth and laughter to chase it. I could never understand why. Some chase women. Some chase money. Some chase the second to get the first—and vice versa. We are taught that we can't take it with us, but some are so engrossed in getting rich that they reply: "In that case, I won't go."

I always figured that, if I ever attained a status of solvency where I owned my own house, my own car, my own typewriter, and had a few bucks in a bank, I'd be happy. I have achieved that august status. Now I find that I fear a fast talker will come along and take it away.

The ascetic monk, with his ancient parchments, his loaf of bread, a chunk of cheese and a bottle of wine figures he's a success. And who is to say that he isn't? In time, he and his knowledge will return to dust.

The American dream of riches, which is a hangover from poverty-stricken forebears who emigrated from Europe, has filled more jails than banks. The kid who can't earn the money steals it. The successful young man wants to be a millionaire before he's 30; at 30 he's working feverishly for the second and third million. At forty, he's insane.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, sitting in the oval office of the President of the United States, told me that he never understood money. "As a military man," he stated, "I requisitioned whatever I needed: 100 planes, 400 tanks, 10,000 men. We never let anything out to the lowest bidder." The pink smile walked up his bald head. "That's why Mister Feldman comes in here three times a week to teach me fundamental economics."

Walk through Woodlawn Cemetery at the top of New York City and you will see a granite mausoleum. The gate is pure bronze and on it is the figure of a beautiful angel clutching the bars and hanging her head in grief. Inside is John W. Gates, known in the old days as "Bet-a-million." I'll lay him a hundred to one he never gets in, and he never gets out.

A few years ago, a wealthy man sent his Rolls-Royce to my home in spite of my protest that I had a car. The Rolls was a thing of beauty. The girls and I packed it nightly with garbage cans drove them in style to the dumps.

Money is of no consequence unless you haven't got it. This is a negative attitude. I know, but true. The presence of money doesn't create panic; it's the absence. Recently, a little black boy of seven was apprehended at dawn following a milkman from porch to porch stealing food for eight little brothers and sisters who had been abandoned in a roach-filled flat.

Was he a thief? An angel of mercy? How does he equate with the multi-millionaire who attains a stock monopoly in a company and sells it short to make more money and, on the way, reduces thousands of school teachers and retired stock owners to poverty?

My sister has a chronically sick husband who is unemployed. I sent her $20. She spent it, not for herself, but for the one thing he craved more than any other—cigarettes. Was she right? Wrong? Or merely merciful? Until my father reached the age of 75, he was always in hock. The police lieutenant owed everybody, and everybody got paid. Then he retired and spent the final years with me, and money accumulated. He spent agonizing days, wondering whom to leave it to without offending others.

The dollar bill, then, is a form of security, as a rubber nipple is to an infant. It's a promise. It's negotiable for goods and services. My question is—at what point does a man have enough of them so that he may stop struggling. The answer is never. The acquisition of money becomes a game. The more you get the more you want.

A bank will pay you 5 per cent interest on a thrift account, and lend it back to you at 8 per cent. Crooked? No, just good business. A lawyer will take your case if you have been mangled in an accident and you look like a sure winner. All he wants is a third of the proceeds although he sustained none of the pain.

The great American credo is not "In God We Trust" but rather, "What's in it for me?" Don't knock it. This is a selfish world. When my paternal grandmother was old, she used to work in the Colgate plant in Jersey City scrubbing the residue of common yellow soap from big trays. I was little and stupid. I cried when I looked at her knuckles.

"Stop it," she said. "I am getting paid for this work and I keep a good boarding house on Fifth Street. I've got a house, and health and meat on the dinner table. Remember what I'm telling you: Nobody will ever give you anything for nothing."

I remember. But I can't understand why men run so fast toward the solid gold casket...

Jack Anderson Says Double-Speakers Circulate Five Big Lies About America

WASHINGTON—There is need for a new Declaration of Independence, another ringing democratic document, replying to the rhetoric against America and re-declaring that America is still the land of the free.

It has become fashionable to deprecate America, to accept falsehoods about the U.S. as noble truth, to adopt the "double-speak" and "double-think" forecast by the late George Orwell.

Increasingly, communist dictatorships are accepted as people's democracies. Aggressors are hailed as liberators, democratic nations are called police states and communist imperialism is considered progressive.

Such words as freedom, democracy, brotherhood, peace, justice—and all they stand for—have been debased in the language mint. Yet this spurious coinage is having an alarmingly successful acceptance among social critics, political reformers, literary intellectuals, questing youths and other concerned Americans.

The double-speak, double-think approach is more diabolically subtle, more difficult to expose than Hitler's technique of the "big lie." Here are five leading lies that the double-thinkers have given common currency:

Police State?

1. America is a police state. As evidence, the double-thinkers point accusingly at police abuses, civil rights violations and government eavesdropping. Yet no responsible American really believes President Nixon will use the police, as a dictator does, to keep himself in power. Most police officials stay in their place and remain subservient to the electorate. Indeed, the police are probably overriden more often than they are upheld by our courts. The greater danger is that the anti-police attitudes will spread until the police become discredited and lose public support. This would bring the chaos that the revolutionaries seek.

America is imperialistic. Since World War II, dozens of new nations have been born kicking and squalling and yelling their defiance. In this revolutionary atmosphere, America has become the symbol of the old order, the status quo, the colonial past. Yet the real imperialists are the communist powers, which spread their influence through the gun barrel. They prefer low-cost guerrilla warfare, and nations around the world are threatened by insurgents armed with Soviet and Chinese weapons. But the great communist powers are also capable of naked aggression, as Hungary, Czechoslovakia, India and Tibet have learned. Because the Reds speak the rhetoric of revolution, however, communist colonialism is soft-pedaled by the double-thinkers.

Irony in China

America is a racist regime. Continuing racial discrimination and the Nixon Administration's indifference toward the minorities give some credence to this calumny. But the truth is that America's minorities enjoy more rights and greater prosperity than are found in most countries. The double-thinkers have been influenced by Peking which inflames racial hatred in the name of racial tolerance. In the Red Chinese lexicon, it is evil to hate non-whites but righteous to hate whites. That China should pose as the champion of the oppressed is a grotesque irony. Her troops overrun Tibet, humiliated Buddhist monks and desecrated their shrines; cruelly put down a rebellion of the Turkish minority in Sinkiang province; and machine-gunned Mongol families who tried to flee the country.

America is an aggressor. The double-thinkers, because they abhor the U.S. intervention in Indochina, consider America the aggressor and North Vietnam the victim. In fact, there are North Vietnamese soldiers in Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam but no Laotian, Cambodian or South Vietnamese soldiers in North Vietnam. Although U.S. planes have raided the north and American hands are hardly stainless, North Vietnam has been the chief aggressor.

The press is no longer free in America. Like all governments, Washington officialdom tries to manipulate the flow of information to the people. But the Supreme Court dramatically demonstrated, by its 6-to-3 vote against government restraints on the New York Times and Washington Post, that the press is still free in America. Indeed, our column, critical as it is of the high and mighty, couldn't be published in most countries. And our "underground press" isn't underground at all but is free to publish the most revolutionary invective without interference.

The double-thinkers on the left, however, serve the nation no worse than the non-thinkers on the right. To these self-styled patriots, love of the government rather than love of country becomes the definition of patriotism. And those who criticize America out of a genuine yearning to see the nation fulfill its promise are denounced as subversives.

The Statue of Liberty, meanwhile, no longer is accepted as a stirring symbol by the hungry, the poor and the oppressed. We need men again like George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, Thomas Paine and Nathan Hale, who can revive the spirit of the American Revolution. We must inflame the world once more with the vision of America.

Henry J. Taylor Says Free Europe's Youth Survey

BRUSSELS—A youth survey conducted by the six-nation Common Market headquarters here puts free Europe's highly publicized radical youth into an astoundingly small minority and makes "the inevitable drift to the left" seem downright silly. Surely, most of America's young people will find these revelations not only sound and accurate but refreshing.

The survey was ordered by Franco-Maria Malfatti, outgoing president of the European Communities Commission. It was conducted in remarkable depth, reflecting the youth's views, aspirations and hopes in detail, and was far-reaching. For example, almost 2,000 young Italians were interviewed face to face, and that was typical.

Asked in which countries they had the most confidence those surveyed chose Switzerland first, the United States second, and Great Britain third. The Common Market youth placed the Soviet Union and Red China at the bottom of the list.

Straight across the board they repudiated communism. They saw it as the ruling of the minority over the majority by coercion, force, repression and terror—an imperialistic drive for power by a disciplined minority merely using the welfare of the people as its cloak.

In overwhelming numbers free Europe's youth said their countries should never trust this Red enemy, especially when he smiles and when he offers gifts. They called him always dangerous—most dangerous of all when he seems most innocent and obliging. They felt he never has a change of heart—the more he changes the more he is the same.

The survey recorded 70 per cent of the youth in favor of European unification. They're clearly determined to have free Europe steer in that direction, and they have a positive vision of Europe as a great force in its own right. They feel that any individual free European country's contrary policy would be tied to the surface of things; break the surface and it sinks. These young people want the Common Market's six countries to evolve in the direction of a United States of Europe. In Italy the percentage favoring this course was recorded at an astounding 77 per cent.

Free Europe's youth is not "teetering on the brink" of anything. Such nonsense is simply fostered on public opinion over here, as it is about our youth at home—and needs to be knocked in the head.

Among social gains wanted, the survey showed 97 per cent desired "no more wars," 95 per cent wanted "a free country where everyone can freely say what he thinks," and 86 per cent wanted "to be able to go anywhere without bureaucratic problems"—thereby proving that the youth of the free world is more universal (and merely natural) in its hopes than we may realize.

As regards their own countries, 78 per cent asked that "my country make important scientific discoveries," but only 56 per cent wanted "my country to play an important role in world politics."

In the field of dissent 60 per cent of the youth said they were opposed to student demonstrations and were especially against the use of violence in seeking to change academic conditions in their universities. Here again they struck out against the Communist minority, saying that communism cannot exist in the face of the truth nor in the environment of freedom. Many in France cited Daniel (Danny the Red) Cohn-Bendit, a tough and notorious German student agitator operating there as typifying the tactic of "anybody we don't want to hear, nobody is going to hear."

The Common Market youth wanted changes. But 73 per cent favored gradual change and only five per cent—the same old small minority again—declared themselves in favor of radical change.

Their hopes, their aspirations, their goals are clear. They obviously reject—and by an immense, crushing majority—the extremes of either the left or the right as the way to achieve those goals.

Surely the survey should warn us against cynically accepting the dramatic, violent performance of a small minority as the norm for today's youth. By and large, what free Europe's youth needs—like our own youth at home—is our confidence, not our condemnation. And, as it is the youth of the free world who will inherit the free world, anything short of that is a calamitous misjudgment.

Vice-President Heads for the Mideast

SINGAPORE (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew left Singapore for the Middle East today, seeking support from leaders in two of the less militant Arab states for President Nixon's efforts to achieve an Arab-Israeli settlement.

After an 8 1/2-hour flight from Bombay, Agnew was to spend nearly two days in the oil-rich Persian Gulf Kingdom of Kuwait, the highest ranking American official ever to visit there. On Thursday he crosses the Arabian peninsula to Jidda on the west coast of Saudi Arabia.

The vice president carried to Kuwait and Saudi Arabia a message that the U.S. government seeks a balance of power of the foreign minister, Sheikh Sabah As-Ahmad As-Sabah, that will assure the security of all nations.

He told newsmen in Singapore Monday that in the Middle East the Nixon administration has tried to counter the increased Soviet naval presence in the Mediterranean and Moslem aid to Egypt by keeping the Israeli government supplied with sufficient disincentive to anyone to attack them while at the same time attempting to maintain a non-hostile posture toward the Arab republics.

The vice president will meet Kuwait's ruler, Amir Sabah As-Sabah, on Wednesday, and then cruise on the Persian Gulf aboard the yacht

Rondout Youth Set Up Employment Service

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — Rondout youngsters with a little bit of help from their elders and about $2,200 from the federal government, have set up their own summer employment service.

The 19-member Rondout Youth Council is the sponsoring agent; it is made up of young people in the Rondout area ranging in age from 14 to 19 years old. The program, however, is aimed at all needy youngsters in the city.

The director is Steven Riddick, 17 years old, a resident of 27 Spring Street. Riddick was elected to his position by his peers in the Youth Council earlier this month.

"We decided to give younger kids a chance to run the program," Riddick told the Freeman at his 11 Broadway offices. "I wound up getting elected."

Riddick is assisted by two aides Sherry Morris of Maple Tree Lane and Edith Rois of Furnace Street and a secretary, Debra Newton.

They are supervised by an adult advisory board consisting of Vincent Bradley, a Green jobs.

Street attorney, who has been increasingly active in Rondout in recent months; the Rev. James Childs, pastor of St. Clara's Church of God and Christ a member of Rondout advisory board and community organizer Edward Brown.

"This is pretty much their show," Brown told The Freeman following the interview. "We're available, though, if they need any help."

Riddick sees his job as two fold: "We have to try to find adult jobs, and if necessary, create jobs."

Along that latter line, Riddick is working on an "odd jobs" program where youngsters would be available, at reasonable rates, to mow lawns, paint fences, maybe do some gardening.

"That way we could probably get some work for some of the 13-year old kids," Riddick reasons.

Right now, he is in the process of setting up his operation which means contacting employers in the area for job openings and getting the word out about the Rondout program.

The program is funded under the OEO's Ulster County Community Action Committee Inc. and is aimed primarily at "those people who really need a job" as Riddick puts it.

Most of the $2,200 will be spent on staffing which includes the director, two aides and a secretary. In addition supplies will come out of those funds and at least tow bus trips, when and where to, as yet undecided.

The office will be open from 9-5, Monday through Friday for the rest of the summer. So far, Riddick and his staff have come up with nine jobs: The Rev. James Veatch, pastor of the Trinity United Methodist Church needed some help with his summer youth program.

Riddick and the Rondout Youth Council are looking forward to a very busy summer.

Police Control Demonstrations As Kissinger Lands in New Delhi

NEW DELHI (AP) — White House adviser Henry Kissinger arrived in New Delhi today amid small-scale demonstrations protesting the two day visit by President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser.

Police kept the demonstrators away from Kissinger. But he was certain to run into vigorous criticism from Indian officials outraged because the United States is continuing to ship arms to the Pakistani army despite its bloody suppression of the independence movement in East Pakistan.

About 500 police cordoned off the New Delhi airport and held back 50 Communist and Socialist demonstrators shouting "Kissinger go home" and carrying a huge banner reading "Kissinger of Death Go Back."

Some had baskets of eggs and tomatoes to throw but they never got anywhere near Kissinger.

Waiting buses took them to the U.S. Embassy two miles away, and they charged into the walled compound. U.S. officials quickly bolted the steel doors of the embassy building and police arrived a few minutes later and chased the demonstrators away.

Kissinger conferred with embassy officials this afternoon and meets Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. Foreign Minister Swaran Singh, Defense Minister Jagjivan Ram and other senior officials Wednesday. He goes to Pakistan Thursday.

Foreign Minister Singh has said he was given a "clear assurance" during his visit to Washington in mid-June that there would be no more military shipments to Pakistan until a satisfactory political settlement was reached with the East Pakistanis. But since then three freighters have left the United States with arms for Pakistan. U.S. officials have admitted that there may be more.

French Student At Paltz High

NEW PALTZ — The New Paltz Chapter of the American Field Service has met its $850 commitment, and the presence of a French exchange student at New Paltz High School next year is assured.

The money was raised by various fund-raising activities, and fund-raising will continue into next year in order to send a local student abroad in 1972 in addition to bringing another foreign student to New Paltz.

Officers for the coming year have been named. Mrs. Helen Karsten, president since the group organized in January, will continue to serve in that capacity assisted by Mrs. Joan Cornwell, vice president; Mrs.

Doris Rohrlack, secretary; and Robert Geary, treasurer.

The American Field Service originated in 1914 as a volunteer ambulance corps serving the French armies in WWI. This year, more than 3,000 students are expected to come to the United States from 60 countries and over 1,600 American students will spend a year abroad supported by AFS chapters in local communities.

New Teaching, Writing Methods Produce Some Dramatic Results

By HENRY L. SAVAGE
HARTFORD, Conn. UPI—A dynamic teaching method is enabling some first graders in Hartford to progress faster in reading and writing than their conventionally taught classmates. Standardized achievement tests indicate students taught under the method are outperforming their counterparts by as much as eight months in reading ability. And the kids, many from disadvantaged homes where languages other than English are sometimes spoken, apparently love it.

The method is the brainchild of the Rev. Michael P. DeBleecker, 50, a Belgian-born Roman Catholic priest whose contract to teach the method has been extended for another year by the city of Hartford.

School Is Play

"We're playing all the time," Father DeBleecker said. "With my method, learning psychologically becomes a game since the children are entertained with the way I teach."

Father DeBleecker, who saw his "ideophonographic system" successfully introduced in Paraguay and Argentina where he was a television personality, prompts squeals of delight with his classroom dramatizations of sounds and correct mouth positions.

Teaching daily in Hartford's Naylor and Kinsella elementary schools, he may whip out a 36-inch length of chain from his "black bag of tricks" with one hand, letting it drop into the palm of the other producing the "ch" sound in "chain."

With wide open mouths and rounded lips the children instinctively ape the balding cleric as he leads them around the classroom singing a ditty about the "o" sound in "orange."

Reading Simplified

The priest, who combined aspects of the ancient Egyptian and Phoenician alphabets in developing his method, has created the "DeBleecker Alphabet" of 82 "ideophonograms."

His alphabet, the linguist claims resolves one of a child's most perplexing problems in reading.

"When we say we are going to write 'horse,'" he explained, "the child logically looks for an outline of a horse, some picture resembling a horse."

"It is the farthest thing from a child's mind that we are going to make pictures of sounds, not only because the word, as a phonetic group, does not have any meaning and is only a conventional symbol to which we adults learn to associate an idea, but also what's worse, a sound is invisible," he added.

"How are we going to make a picture of something invisible?" The answer, according to Robert J. Marianella, principal of Hartford's Naylor School and a reading specialist, lies in the alphabet created by Father DeBleecker.

"His method is unique in that he forms letters into pictures so when a student hears a particular sound they see a picture and automatically visualize an initial consonant or word," Marianella said.

The "HHH" sound as in hammock, for example, is illustrated by a hammock strung between two trees, one taller than the other, so as to resemble the letter "h."

On the other hand, Father DeBleecker uses a snake in the shape of an "s" to portray the "SSS" sound.

Father DeBleecker then introduces his pupils to the sometimes baffling world of phonetics by imitating the natural sound associated with a certain word or object and making the imitative pictures of the mouth positions when the sound in question is produced.

Makes Better Spellers

"Teachers will say there are already 25 methods and DeBleecker makes 26," he said. "Many teachers don't believe in miracles. But it's there. Numbers talk."

Marianella agreed, pointing to the results of two metropolitan achievement test batteries administered to an experimental class and two control group classes at the Kinsella School.

The experimental class of 25 children at the ghetto school, he said, outperformed the two control classes of 52 students in the areas of word discrimination, reading comprehension and spelling.

Especially noticeable, he explained, was the average score of Father DeBleecker's pupils in the spelling section.

"Father's students had a grade average of two years, two months in spelling while the first control group scored one year, four months, and the other control class averaged one year."

Fights Illiteracy

Marianella, who said he's seen new reading methods come and go during his 11 years in elementary education, admitted he's "sold" on Father DeBleecker's method.

"I've seen the results," he said. "It's far better than any method I've seen so far. I know it works and so do the other teachers. He's really got something."

Hartford school officials apparently agree. Father DeBleecker, who was hired for the past school year to teach the children on an experimental basis, has been asked by the city to instruct teachers in his method during the coming year.

U. S. Narcotics Bureau Cuts Down Foreign Flow

PARIS (AP)—The U.S. Narcotics Bureau is claiming major successes in cutting down the flow of heroin from Europe and the Middle East to the United States.

But the bureau's director for Europe, John T. Cusack, acknowledges that the French processing labs that turn morphine base into heroin are still untouched. And he says Turkish opium growers continue high production, although officials there are trying to dry up the black market and have agreed to stop growing opium next year.

Cusack based his claim of success on narcotics seizure made by European police department with the assistance of intelligence, expertise or money from the U.S. Narcotics Bureau.

In the first six months of 1971, 1,353 kilos of heroin and morphine base were seized from Spain to Turkey with American assistance. This compared with 305 kilos in all of 1970, he said. In France alone 548 kilos of heroin base were seized during the first half of year, compared to last year's 12-month total of 449. A kilo is 2.2 pounds.

The figures become meaningful in terms of the 5,000 kilos of heroin-refined from morphine base on a one to one ratio—that are smuggled into the United States from Europe and the Middle East every year.

The increased seizures are attributed to growing concern within Europe about narcotics and an expansion of U.S. operations on the Continent since last fall.

But all the seizures have been outside the laboratories in the Marseilles area where processing is concentrated.

An American close to the drug situation said: "No one knows better than we do that we're not getting the labs. It's the French police. They're making a whole lot of progress, but quite frankly the capability of their new people is just not up to it yet. They're hitting the traffickers which is fine and important, but we're still not into the final stage."

Reports from Associated Press bureaus indicate a general toughening in attitudes:

Ankara—Turkish police are using a $3 million U.S. loan to train a 420-man narcotics squad and have confiscated this year twice the amount of illicit opium seized in any previous year. The government has raised the price it pays for opium, hoping farmers will shun black marketeers. The Turkish government announced this week its readiness to stop opium cultivation next June.

Athens—Greece is considered tough territory for morphine base and heroin traffickers. American officials say these people prefer to go west from Turkey through Bulgaria and Yugoslavia rather than run into Greek police. A new law threatens two years to life for trafficking.

Rome—Drug use is described as being on the rise in Italy, but figures are not available. U.S. narcotics officers gauge the increase as substantial, but still not a matter of national concern. One view is that Italian authorities seem good at catching young hippies trading in hashish but seem unable so far to make arrests of any major drugs dealer.

Paris—For years the FVH scoffed at the narcotics traffic in their own territory, to the point that it became a diplomatic sorepoint between Paris and Washington. The French increased their narcotics squad last year. An American credits them with spotting the shipment of 50 kilos of heroin, hidden in a car on board a Soviet ship, that was picked up in Montreal last month. French police now check any unusual freight shipments to the United States.

Madrid—Police sources say no additional efforts are made here to stop shipments to United States since the source, mainly for hashish, is considered to be Morocco. The U.S. Narcotic Bureau has installed two agents.

Mexico also figures actively in the fight on drugs.

U.S. Customs officials in Southern California say traffickers operating between California and Mexico are being arrested in greater numbers and their contraband is being confiscated in larger quantities.

Drug Use Heavy At Church Picnic

FARRAGUT STATE PARK, Idaho UPI—Scores of young people worked into the night Monday to clean rubbish discarded at the site of a three-day "church picnic" which included marijuana smoking and nude swimming.

A crowd estimated at 12,000 jammed this state park Sunday and did its thing unmolested by law enforcement agents at the Universal Life Church's "Celebration Of Life."

Heavy drug use was reported in the park. Kootenai County sheriff's deputies arrested eight persons on drug abuse charges outside the park Sunday and Monday. No serious incidents were reported.

Approximately 40 rock bands entertained the throng. Many young people took advantage of the fine weather to bathe nude in nearby ponds.

Although most began heading for home Monday afternoon, a few picnickers stayed behind to hear the last of the rock bands and help clean the 250 acres set aside for the church picnic.

Church founder and leader Kirby J. Hensley promised another festival "bigger than this one" at Farragut next year.

"We are freer here than we could be anywhere else," he said shortly before leaving the site Monday.

The picnic generally was characterized by smooth organization that accounted for the distribution of litter bags to those entering the park.

Both Sheriff Stan Johnson and Prosecuting Attorney Frank Haman said they opposed any future festivals of this nature, citing the strain on law enforcement and the "high amount of drug traffic" noticed by undercover agents within the park.

Profile on IBM's Learson: Hard Decisions Come Easy

NEW YORK (AP) — Making hard decisions comes easy to the new head of International Business Machines Corp.

"I've always preached the philosophy that the job of management is to make decisions," said T. Vincent Learson in a recent interview. "And that sins of omission were greater than sins of commission."

The words "aggressive" and "hard-nosed" frequently are used by people in the industry when speaking about Learson, 58, who last week succeeded Thomas J. Watson Jr. as chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the world's biggest computer company.

"I want action: if that makes me aggressive, well . . . His voice trailed off. Then he added with a smile: "I think I am a reasonably agreeable fellow."

A book by William Rogers on IBM, titled "Think," included this assessment: "Tom Watson, his brother, Arthur, and T. V. Learson are mortal men—although not everyone readily believes it in the case of Mr. Learson, who sometimes appears as vital and indefatigable as a supercomputer."

Learson, a Boston-born, Harvard graduate, won his reputation at IBM as a supersalesman. He joined the company as a student salesman in 1935, became a vice president in 1954 and president in 1966.

Last week he became the first person outside the Watson family to direct IBM's fortunes since the late T. J. Watson Sr. took over an obscure concern called Computer-Tabulating-Recording Co. and developed it into one of the most influential corporations in the world.

Learson worked closely with his predecessor over the years, standing with Tom Jr. against the "old guard" who thought the computer was a passing fancy and taking over many of Watson's duties when he suffered a mild heart attack last year.

But he also put his job on the line by arguing for System 360, a third generation of computers introduced by IBM in 1964, against those who preferred different tactics—a group that reportedly included Watson. System 360 eventually became a huge success.

"Since I have been a part of almost every major decision since 1949, I don't think the change in the way IBM moves will be sharply different under me," Learson said.

"I have nothing I want to change," he added. "I hope to change as technology and economics and human relations dictate. I think I'm flexible enough. But I think the way I do things will be pretty much the way Tom did them."

Learson's physical appearance is as imposing as his reputation. A bit over 6-feet-5 inches tall, he weighs over 200 pounds. His once-dark hair is heavily streaked with gray, setting off his dark blue eyes.

His manner of dress is definitely subdued, but not quite as conservative as one usually expects from IBM executives.

"Some people think this is pretty fancy," he smiled, fingering the midnight blue silk shantung of his suit. Indeed, the jacket lining was a dark Paisley print, and Learson bought the blue and white print tie he was wearing in Italy. His shirt, however, was white and had a buttoned-down collar.

"I know IBM has an image of being conservative, but I think you'd find our people as red-blooded and varied as any," Learson said. "They're Mr. and Miss America, not something apart. They are dedicated to the company."

Like Tom Watson, Learson is a sailing enthusiast. His father and grandfather were sailors, but it was not until 1954 that the new IBM chief began racing his own yacht. Several years ago he won the Newport-to-Bermuda race in which Watson finished 27th. This year he won the Larchmont Yacht Club's race.

Learson enjoys telling people that Nepenthe, the name he chose for his present 50-foot yacht, is a Greek word which means something that induces a pleasant sensation of forgetfulness.

He and his wife, the former Gladys Murray of Boston, have four daughters and several grandchildren. They live on Manursing Island which juts into Long Island Sound at Rye, N.Y.

Joyce Memorial Funds Are Sought

DUBLIN (AP) — An Irish tourist organization has launched a campaign to raise funds for a fitting memorial to James Joyce, the Irish genius who transfused new blood into an English language that was dying of literary anemia.

If enough money is raised a retired American executive has promised to endow the memorial with what is regarded as the world's finest private collection to Joycean relics.

Planned site of the memorial is a damp old tower just eight miles south of Joyce's native Dublin at Sandycove. The dilapidated granite structure, known as a Martello tower—was built almost two centuries ago to resist an invasion by Napoleon which never came off.

The fund plans to buy a nearby white-turreted mansion, open a plush restaurant with broad views over surrounding Dublin Bay and perhaps repatriate the author's remains from his grave in Zurich, Switzerland, where he died aged 59 in 1941.

The collection of Joyce relics is owned by George Leinwall of Randallstown, Maryland. Leinwall, a retired executive of the Maryland Education and Welfare Department, has acquired about 1,000 first editions of Joyce's works—some of them autographed—as well as original manuscripts.

"It is a fantastically generous offer," said Noel J. Carroll, assistant manager of the tourist organization which is sponsoring the campaign with the local branch of the Joyce Foundation.

Joyce spent a memorable summer early in the 1900s in the tower. He made it the setting for the sonorous opening of his epic masterpiece "Ulysses." This novel fell foul of the world's censorship authorities for years before it finally was acclaimed as one of the world's greatest literary works.

Stately, plump Buck Mulligan, one of the characters in "Ulysses" opens the novel by stepping up on to the top of the tower with a bowl containing a razor and a shaving brush crossed and intoning the opening words of the Holy Mass.

The novel brings into play Joyce's amazing knowledge of languages, Oriental philosophy, Irish history, religion and above all, his passion for music which is captured in the prose. At present thousands of tourists from abroad visit the tower and pay 25 cents to see the sparse mementoes on display. The fund's aim is to restore it to its condition when Joyce lived there as an impoverished schoolmaster.

The Joyce cult is nowhere stronger than in the United States. Several American universities—notably Cornell and Stanford—already hold the major share of the Irish author's literary remains.

The capital value of Joycean mementoes constantly is increasing. Last year an American buyer paid more than $2,400 for an autographed copy of Ulysses and sold it for half as much again in New York shortly afterwards.

Every year an army of American professors and students go on a pilgrimage round the sleazy back streets of Dublin and pay homage at the Sandycove tower. Irish Joyceans know that Joyce, once condemned by Ireland as "indecent and obscene" is now accepted and his works can be bought at book stores in Dublin.

Ohio Trio Set For Boat Trip; Sailing to Rio

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Three Ohioans, bachelors from Akron, spent the holiday weekend doing their own thing as they embarked on a 15,000-mile boat trip from Cleveland to Rio de Janeiro.

The trio—including two who had never before sailed—left Cleveland Saturday aboard a 33-foot triple-hulled vessel that took 13 months to build and cost of about $10,000.

Mahl Murke, 28, who built the boat, Dan Metheny and Verl Andrick, both 23, hope to reach Rio in 18 months.

They plan to sail from Lake Erie up the St. Lawrence Seaway to Montreal, through the Champlain Canal to the Hudson River and then into the Atlantic Ocean.

After reaching Florida, Metheny said, they plan on island hopping through the Caribbean and then will head down to Rio. "We're not on any schedule," Murkel said. "We'll just go where we want to go and do what we want to do."

Murderer Is Paroled, Starts New Position

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — A Nevada man, told 13 years ago he had no hope for parole from a second-degree murder conviction, begins work here today as probation agent for Montgomery County.

The series of events which led to parole for Tom Eisentrager began last summer when Montgomery County Judge Plummer Shearin and other jurors spent a few days in the Nevada State Prison under the guise of prisoners.

Shearin, in Nevada for a conference on prison reform, said he and other judges became acquainted with Eisentrager. Shearin said the 48-year-old prisoner "was highly regarded by both fellow inmates and jail officials."

Returning to Maryland, Judge Shearin decided to press for the inmate's parole. In April he enlisted the services of Dr. Brian Crowley, a Bethesda psychiatrist.

The two Marylanders went to Nevada and pleaded Eisentrager's case before Gov. Michael O'Callahan and the state parole board.

The board, which unanimously rejected a parole request last year, voted 4 to 2 last Friday to release Eisentrager into the custody of Maryland officials. He arrived in Maryland Saturday.

Eisentrager, still stunned about his release, said he wants to "try to keep kids from getting in their first prison situation."

"All I want right now... is to feel I am doing something positive. I can look back at the whole mess of garbage in the past and have to strain to find anything positive."

"To become a real person, you must have a moral standard, which I never had until now."

Eisentrager received a life sentence in 1958 for second-degree murder in the slaying of his girl friend.

Since it was his fourth major conviction, Nevada state law dictated the specification "no hope of parole" be attached to his sentence.

Crowley attributed factors leading to Eisentrager's parole, despite stipulation on his sentence, to "an enormous human change in his individual make-

Highland School Sets New Budget

The Highland School Board has settled on the revised budget to place before district voters July 22.

The adjusted base budget will be $3,082,687.77; the budget rejected in June by school district residents totaled $3,314,993.65.

The increase on the tax rate if the new adjustment budget is approved will be $2.50 for Town of Lloyd school district residents.

Five propositions will also be presented to the voters, according to School Board President John Elia. A proposition will be presented for $22,805.78 for the interscholastic athletic program, and one will be presented for $25,850 for transportation inside the 2-3-mile state mandated limits.

If these two propositions are approved it will mean a $6.74 tax hike for Town of Lloyd residents.

A proposition for $10,000 for student insurance, one for $2,500 for the Highland Free Library, and a bond issue to purchase five 66-passenger buses, one 15-passenger bus, and one station wagon at a total cost of $70,200 will also be submitted for voter approval.

The library proposal carries a $3.5 rate hike, and the student insurance $1.39. The bond issue will have no impact on this year's budget, according to Elia, but will reflect on next year's.

Kathleen Krajci Exchanges Vows With R. T. Buckheit

MRS. ROBERT T. BUCKHEIT

St. John's Church in West Hurley was the setting for the wedding of Miss Kathleen Patricia Krajci, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Krajci of VanDale Road, Woodstock, and Robert Thomas Buckheit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore O. Buckheit of 2 Hedge Row, New City, on Saturday, June 19.

The Rev. Gerard D. O'Shea officiated at the double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass. Mrs. Aleksander Narel, organist, accompanied Mrs. Janet Casey of Hicksville who sang traditional wedding selections. The altar was decorated with baskets of multi-colored gladioli and chrysanthemums. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a white organza gown fashioned with a full front panel of reembodyered Alencon lace. A cathedral train fell from the natural waistline. The gown featured full bishop sleeves which were trimmed with matching lace. Her illusion veil was attached to a cap of Alencon lace and she carried a stylized cascade of white bridal roses and baby's breath.

Miss Denise Larkin of Hicksville, L.I. was maid of honor in a floor length gown of yellow crepe. The gown was fashioned in the empire line with a contrasting white bib and full wrist-length sleeves which terminated in white crepe cuffs. She carried a nosegay of yellow, blue, green and apricot daisies with multi-colored streamers.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Eileen Thornton of Hicksville; Barbara Buckheit, sister of the bridegroom, New City; and Margaret Krajci, sister of the bride, Woodstock. Their light blue, Nile green, and apricot colored gowns were styled identically to that of the honor attendant's. They carried nosegays of multi-colored daisies with ribbons to match their gowns.

Miss Jeannette Krajci, sister of the bride, Woodstock, and Miss Marion Buckheit, sister of the bridegroom, New City, served as flower girls in yellow gowns similar in styling to those of the other attendant's but with short puffed sleeves. All attendants wore bow headpieces to match their gowns. They carried miniature fireside baskets of multi-colored daisies with multi-colored streamers.

Terence Lenaghan of Mt. Kisco was best man. Ushers were Charles Weber, Highland Falls, William Krajci, brother of the bride, Woodstock; and George Buckheit, brother of the bridegroom,

New City, Anthony Napoli of New Windsor was commentator at the Mass.

A reception for 155 guests was held at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

For her wedding trip to Bermuda, the bride selected a white knit pantsuit trimmed with navy blue, navy blue accessories, and a white orchid corsage.

The bride attended Queen of the Rosary Academy in Amityville, L.I. and was graduated in 1968 from John A. Coleman High School in Kingston. She attended Hunter College in New York and was graduated from Mt. Sinai Hospital School of Nursing this year. She is employed in maternity ward at Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Her husband was graduated in 1966 from Pius X High School in Uniondale, L.I. He attended Cathedral College and was a dean's list graduate in 1970 from Manhattan College School of Business. He is employed as a systems analyst by Cities Service Corp., Wall Street, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckheit will reside at 801-2 Neill Avenue, Bronx, Apt. 2-B.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE

Dear Heloise: I have found a solution to locating items in my freezer. I color code them!

I cut out tags of different colors and shapes from adhesive-backed paper to indicate what is in the package. For instance: red for beef, yellow for pork, blue for turkey, etc.

I wrap one-meal portions of the same item and put 5 or 10 of them in a plastic container and attach the proper label.

My roasts and larger cuts

ENJOY! ENJOY!

Give Yourself A Permanent Vacation from Household Chores! CALL HANDY-ANDY 338-0787 of meat and fish are all labeled and arranged in the freezer so they are easy to see. It is so easy to spot a colored tag and know immediately if I have the correct item for dinner.

When I open a package and use only a portion of it, I close it with a pipe cleaner. This way I am sure I'm using the oldest items first.

Anonymous

How attractive your freezer must be with its multi-colored tags, and such an ingenious idea, too.

Just imagine, gals, how easy it would be to find what you are looking for at first glance instead of rummaging through the whole freezer to find exactly what you need. Sure would save time and tempers.

Heloise

Dear Heloise: When my husband broke a shoe lace, I discovered I didn't have a spare in the house.

Racking my brain for a replacement, I spied the metal-tipped cord on my calendar towel.

It worked just fine until I could go to the store and purchase new laces.

Mrs. Harold Lane

Dear Heloise:

I, for one, love the maxi look and have several brand new outfits. I have found . . . Long nylon-type pajamas make perfect "petti-pants" to wear under the skirts.

Also, long nylon nighties make perfect petticoats. Cut off at the right length, hem and insert elastic for a perfect long half-slip.

Glenna Taylor

Dear Heloise: I found a good way to use a youth table that my children had outgrown.

My daughter had been bedridden for several weeks and it suddenly dawned on me that I could convert the youth table to a lap table.

I shortened the legs and made a ledge all the way around it to keep things from rolling off. I covered the whole table with adhesive-backed paper.

It's decorative and functional and very inexpensive. Considering I have four children and 10-years wear on the table.

Hope your readers like this idea. It has been a lifesaver for me.

Alcohol Amplifies One's Personality

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1971, by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend is very sweet and nice to me as a rule. But when he's drinking he gets very mean. He finds fault with me and picks fights over nothing. He also wants to pick fights with everybody else.

He's not an alcoholic, Abby. He can take it or leave it alone, but he gets so ugly and mean when he's tight. I wonder which side of him is the real him. I would like your opinion.

DIXIE: Alcohol doesn't change one's personality. It merely amplifies it. A mean person gets meaner and a sweet person gets sweeter. If your boy friend can take it or let it alone, he's ahead to let it alone. (And you'd be wise to let him alone.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband

is a truck driver and he is gone from home sometimes a week to 10 days. What makes me mad is he tells me he will call me at a certain time. We don't have a phone so he calls me at a neighbor's home. So I go there and wait from 7 to 10 in the evening because that's the time he says he'll call. Well, about half the time he doesn't call, so I go to my neighbor's house again on the next night, and sometimes am tempted not to be there when he does call, but what would that solve?

ALONE BY THE PHONE: DEAR ALONE: Nothing. Go to your neighbor's to wait for his call on the night he has said he'll call, and don't try to second guess him. Truck drivers on the whole are a reliable lot. You picked a lemon.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

TIVOLI
When Herbert J. Alcan was courting the girl that was to become his wife he told her, "Someday I'll build you your own castle."

He may be the only man in the United States to have kept that promise.

Driving southward on Route 9G north of the Village of Tivoli one comes upon the turrets of what appears to be a Tudor castle peering over the trees atop a hill which affords a magnificent westward view of the Catskill Mountains.

The castle is constructed of grey cement block, but from a distance it could pass for block stone. It was part of a lucky killing made when the Alcans picked up the three-dimensional diamond-embossed block left over from a hospital construction project in Schenectady.

The building has been three years or more in the making to its present stage, with exterior completed and two upstairs bedrooms in the eight-room castle nearly completed.

Herbert Alcan is a refrigeration-air conditioning supervisor at Lincoln Center in New York, and has been working on the castle with his two sons for the past several years on weekends.

It is the first major project he ever tried, and the immense amount of work evident in viewing the towering structure makes one wonder where he got all of the energy.

The Alcan family has been coming up weekends for the past 12 years, and owns 33 acres, including five surrounding the castle, fronting on Route 9G.

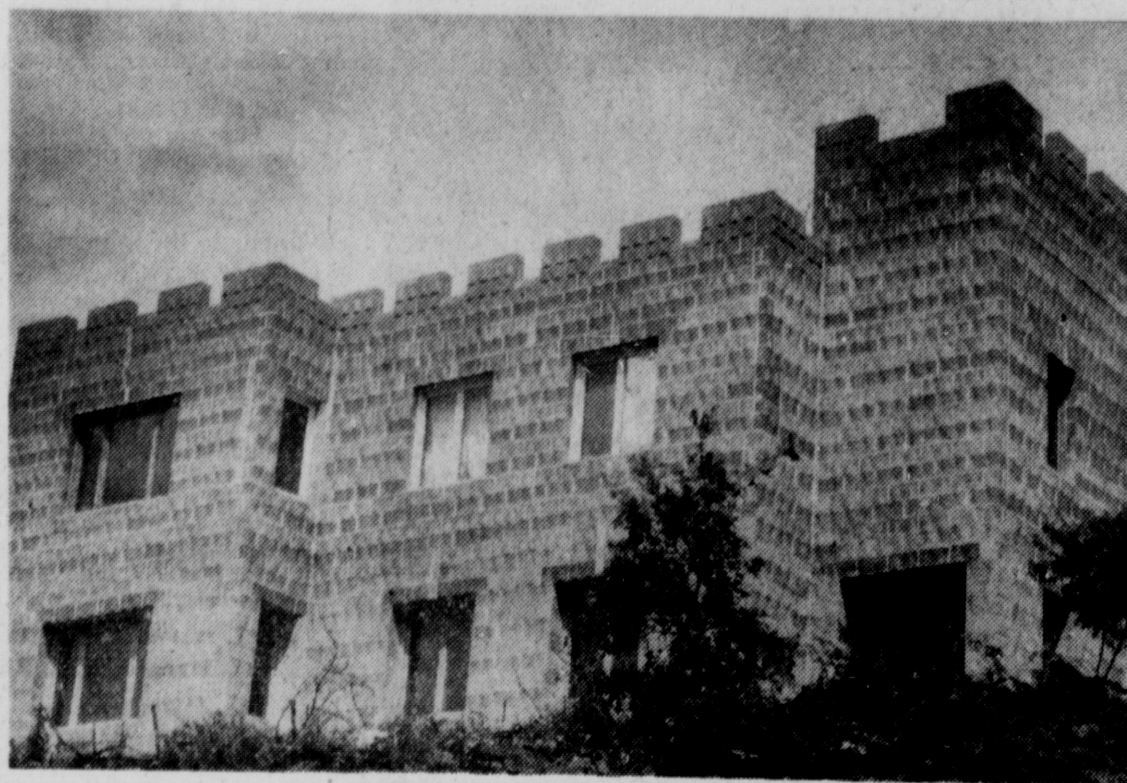

Mrs. Alcan spoke with The Freeman of the hectic weekends and holidays, saying that the hardest part now seems to be deciding on how to decorate and furnish the interior.

An innovation by Alcan is a pitched roof, hidden behind the

Saugerties Celebration...A Weekend of Fun and Games

HUNGRY WATERMELON EATERS

By WADE BURKHART

SAUGERTIES

When Charles Dickens wished to submit conclusive proof that Ebenezer Scrooge was rehabilitated, and finally trod the paths of the virtuous, he ended his tale, A Christmas Carol, by saying Scrooge could "keep Christmas" as well as any man in London.

If the ability to celebrate a holiday properly is any proof of virtue, Saugerties and its Jaycees must be virtuous indeed. They keep the Fourth of July better than anyone in the Hudson Valley.

The schedule for the weekend of July 2, 3, and 4 included drum and bugle corps competition, a watermelon eating contest, a baby parade, musical programs, a sack race, square dancing, a model rocket contest, The Great Manzini (an escape artist), Erick, Golden Boy of the Highwire (whose title would seem to speak for itself), fireworks, of course, a number of other things, and a parade.

And what a parade. Estimates of the number of people who watched it ranged as high as 25,000. That may be a little high, but the crowd was big, no doubt about that.

People were lined up five and six deep all along the parade route. Children were everywhere, in varying degrees of parental control. Everywhere you looked balloons bobbed in the breeze. Some balloons escaped, and when they got up into the upper air currents, they moved along at a grand clip.

The parade was held Saturday, and the day was glorious. The sky was blue, practically no clouds, and a breeze kept things from getting too hot.

The parade began about 10:15 and ended just before noon. It featured 12 divisions. There were drum and bugle corps, bagpipers, horsemen, floats, marchers, over 80 units in all.

The gaudiest unit was the Morris County Golden String Band. The group is formed along the lines of a Philadelphia mummies street band, complete with banjos. The pink brocade costumes and the huge white plumes on their headresses drew a great deal of appreciative comment.

Dignitaries in the parade included Congressman and Mrs. Hamilton Fish Jr., State Senator Jay P. Rolison, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, the Saugerties Town Board and Patricia Czarski, Miss Ulster County, Grand Marshal Fred Davi and Junior Grand Marshal Richard Marconi Jr. were at the head of the parade.

The mounted contingent from the Ulster County Sheriff's Department and that of the Blue Valley 4-H brought up the rear of the parade. Actually not quite the rear. That dubious honor went to a wheelbarrow and shovel crew of two Jaycees, one of which was past Jaycee President John Lawrence, as the parade announcer put it "doing what they did best."

When the parade was over, most of the crowd adjourned to Cantine Field for the full slate of activities there. Miss Czarski handed out awards, the drum and bugle corps went at it again, and children played in the playground.

Many people made for the refreshment stands. The sausage and pepper sandwiches were excellent, and the beer very cold. The watermelon concession did a brisk business.

Several families brought picnic lunches, tables, and chairs, and settled down in the shade of the trees lining Cantine Field for the afternoon's entertainment.

Americans were celebrating the Fourth. There wasn't an unhappy face in the crowd.

Something For Everyone In Three Days

SAUGERTIES
This village put away its troubles and the troubles of the world for three days this past weekend and those who attended any or all of the Independence Day celebration had to admit — it was one of the best ever.

Climaxing three days of music, games, laughs and variety was a spectacular fireworks display — a tremendous presentation of thrilling aerial and ground displays of beauty to end a fabulous fun-filled weekend.

There was something for the very old, the very young and all those ages in between. From Frivolous Sal's Dixieland Band, to the twelve division parade, from the drum and bugle corps competition to the battle of the bands; from Erick on the highwire to the Great Manzini performing his famed escape acts; from the watermelon eating contest to the sack race for youngsters.

Even the weatherman cooperated. The skies, for the most part during the three days of fun and play, were blue. It was splendid summer weather.

Nostalgia, which often enters into these happy occasions, was also present in Saugerties. The late Ernest E. Schirmer, a friend to everyone and a noted sportsman as well as a police justice, was remembered. Bernard Rinaldi, Saugerties Commissioner of Recreation, dedicated a plaque in honor of the former attorney and his name is now enshrined at the entrance to Cantine Field, along with other sports immortals.

The Saugerties Jaycees, who sponsored the weekend aren't resting on their laurels.

They're starting to plan for an even bigger celebration for 1972.

Young Persons Have Chance To Influence School Policies

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Thousands of young persons, including some who still are students, have an unprecedented chance to influence the policies of their school districts in this month's voting on budgets and the makeup of school boards across New York State.

Robert D. Stone, the chief legal officer of the State Education Department, said Thursday that districts in which votes still must be held should make every effort to register 18, 19 and 20-year-old residents before the next election.

Stone is the department's deputy commissioner for legal affairs and a top adviser to State Education Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist.

He based his strong recommendation on the fact three-quarters of the states have ratified the 26th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution that lowers the voting age to 18 in state and local as well as federal elections.

"The broad language of the amendment is clearly applicable to all annual and special school district meetings in New York State, including election of school board members, budgets, and votes on bond issues and other propositions, and including revotes for any of those purposes," Stone said in a special statement.

"School districts in which personal registration of voters is in effect should make every effort to afford newly qualified voters an opportunity to register, either before or at the time of the next regular meeting or election in each such district, and should permit persons so registered to vote at that meeting or election," he added.

Stone told reporters he would have gone as far as telling district officials that they must register such voters, except that the state law does not give him that authority.

Therefore, he advised the districts that "while special arrangements for registration of newly qualified voters are not specifically provided for by statute in New York, such arrangements should be considered a proper implementation of the purposes and intent of the 26th Amendment."

There are about 180 local districts that will be submitting their proposed budgets to voters for the first time this month. Some additional districts will resubmit budget plans after defeats in May and June. In addition, there still are school board elections to be decided.

Until now, the persons eligible to vote in school district elections were those who were U.S. citizens, at least 21 years old and residents of the district for at least 30 days prior to the annual meeting.

The change in the vote could have a major impact on local educational policies.

There are many examples of proposed budgets going down to defeat by only a handful of votes. An extension of the franchise to young persons who do not share their elders' anguish over property tax increases is likely to tip the scales in favor of a spending proposal that otherwise might be rejected.

Moreover, a year from now, high school students who have reached the age of 18 may seek election to their local school board.

One educational administrator noted that there is a tongue-in-cheek saying that "you have to be careful who you fail because they may come back and believe your board members." With students on the board, he added, the situation would be incredible.

One example of how policy matters could be affected this year is in the Bethlehem Central School District near Albany.

A runoff election for school board membership will be held there Wednesday because none of the candidates for two new seats emerged with a clear plurality in this week's voting.

If the district adheres to Stone's recommendation to register newly qualified voters, several years.

young persons could provide the margin of victory for one of the runoff contenders.

In addition, high school students have campaigned vigorously there in the past for approval of budget proposals made by the school board. In 1972, these students could go beyond ringing doorbells and asking adults to vote for bigger school expenditures and, instead, get some of their group to cast affirmative votes in the election, perhaps resulting in the first Bethlehem budget approval in several years.

ANTIQUES SHOW—High Falls Civic Association will hold an antiques show, Aug. 28 and 29 in the Old School House on School Hill Road. Plans for the event are being made by (L) Dorothy Lynch, Don Dales, Mildred Dales, Thea Bambina and Steven Bambina. Colonial craft demonstrations will also be given on Aug. 28. Volunteers adept at colonial crafts are welcomed.

Seniors Set For Bus Trip To Asbury Park

KINGSTON — Kingston Recreation Commission's Senior Citizen Committee announced that the commission will sponsor a bus trip to Asbury Park for senior citizens on Wednesday, July 14.

Chairman James Thompson said it will be the third year in a row that the commission is sponsoring the event. The trip this year will be limited to two buses with the first 80 persons signing up being selected. Reservations will be accepted only on Friday, July 9, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Boy Suffocates

VIENNA (UPI)—A 3-year-old East German boy suffocated in his hiding place while he and his parents were being smuggled across the Hungarian border into Austria Friday, Austrian police said Monday.

Wilhelm Wildback, 27, his wife Heide, and Wilhelm Jr., persuaded an Austrian truck driver to bring them across the border. They had been vacationing in Hungary.

They hid in boxes covered with wood-wool — fine wood shavings. When they had passed safely through the border checkpoints, the truck driver let them out. They found the boy had suffocated.

Don't just lie there... do something!

Sure we've got lots more leisure time on our hands. We might even be called the leisure time society.

But leisure time doesn't mean we have to lie around doing nothing. All it means is we have a lot more time to do the things we always wanted to do and never found time for.

Like water skiing, or building a new garage. Like driving across the country with a camper and seeing all the sights. Like playing golf or taking that once-in-a-lifetime trip to the South Seas. Like re-doing your dining room just the way you always wanted it.

There's one slight drawback to these dreams. They all cost money. But Bankers Trust has the answer. A personal loan. To let you fill your leisure time with things to do and places to go. We have personal loan plans to fit every budget, every pocketbook. Your signature on a simple form is usually all we need.

Visit any of our convenient offices. And don't let any grass grow under your hammock.

Hodges Remembered Hunt

NEW YORK (AP) — The Montreal Expos managed six hits in 18 innings of baseball against the New York Mets which isn't good. But they came out of it with a split in the doubleheader and when you've lost 22 of your last 28 games, that's good enough.

Thank you, Ron Hunt.

You remember Ron Hunt? He used to play second base for the Mets. He was one of the team's early heroes. Never gave an inch. Belly whopper slides. Spell it pesky.

Manager Gil Hodges remembered Hunt.

"He had all kinds of allergies when he was here," said Hodges. "He was a very expensive ball player to carry because of all his medicines."

Hunt gave the Mets a dose of his medicine in the first game and it cost them a 2-1 loss before they took the nightcap 8-0.

Nolan Ryan, locked in a scoreless duel with John Stroh-mayer, had retired the first two Expos in the eighth inning of the opener.

"Two out and none on," noticed Montreal Coach Don Zimmer. "You don't expect a rally then. Not the way Ryan was throwing."

The batter was Hunt and now he was in the batter's box and now he was out. Check the sign. Back to the on-deck circle for some resin and pinetar. In the box. Now out again. Something to remember that infamous day in the eye. In again. Out again. In '51, drove in three runs with Ryan, perhaps bugged by she-a bases loaded triple and Willie Mays' walk. Next Crawford hit his fourth homer of the season to pin Gaylord Martinez at shortstop and Ken Singleton, Duffy Dyer and Donn Clendenon after long spells on the bench. Suddenly, everything fell into place.

Four straight singles produced three runs in the first inning. Singles by Clendenon and Dyer, who had five hits between them, gave the Mets two more in the third.

And then Cleon Jones rapped a three-run homer in the fourth. Meanwhile, Sadecki mowed the Expos down. He struck out seven, walked none and faced shakeup. Front and center Ray Sadecki. Now Sadecki is not your ordinary stopper. He is perhaps the number 5 or 6 starter in Hodges' rotation. He pitches when the Mets remember to give him the baseball. He is an avid reader of schedules.

"We've got an off day Thursday and next week there's the All-Star break," Sadecki said. "I don't know when I'll go again."

Hodges supplied the veteran left-hander with a well-mixed lineup that included rookie Ted

That Strike Call Helped Ruin Yanks

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Baseball is a nine-inning game, but just one pitch can turn things around—as the New York Yankees, the victims, and the Boston Red Sox, the beneficiaries, found out in their holiday weekend series windup.

Plate umpire John Rice had both sides angry with his calls of pitches, but one stood out Monday as the Red Sox rallied for a 12-7 victory in a wild slugfest featuring 32 hits, including seven homers, and 61 total bases.

The Yankees were in front 7-6 and the Red Sox had the bases loaded against reliever Lindy McDaniel with two out in the sixth inning. Rico Petrocelli, who had tied the game 6-6 with a homer in the fifth, moved into the batter's box.

Petrocelli ran the count to 2-2, then looked at a sharp breaking pitch. Rice called it a ball and Manager Ralph Houk and his Yankees took the heat, stomping and shouting in vain.

Most observers, including some members of the Red Sox, thought the pitch was a strike on the outside corner of the plate. Instead, Petrocelli was given a life.

On the next pitch, Petrocelli tripled off the wall in left center, sending Boston winging to its 11th victory in the last 14 games. George Scott and Joe Lahoud followed with homers in capping the six-run explosion and sending McDaniel down to his eighth defeat in 11 decisions.

"Who says one pitch can't turn a game around?" said one baseball veteran, now a scout, who was seated directly behind home plate. "That pitch looked awfully good to me. It seemed to really break across."

Petrocelli, who has driven in 54 runs despite a .250 batting average, smiled when asked how he dared to take the pitch in such a situation.

"I'm sure the Yankees think otherwise, but the pitch was about five inches off the plate," the slugging third baseman said. "It also was a little low. I didn't think much of it at the time, even though I heard the Yankees squawking. I just concentrated on getting a good piece of the next pitch."

Petrocelli's triple pulled the Red Sox from behind for the third time as they picked up one-half game on Baltimore. The Orioles now lead Boston by just three games in the American League East.

In other American League action, the rampaging Washington Senators drubbed Cleveland, 15-6, to complete a four-game sweep of the Indians and extend their winning streak to six straight.

California edged Oakland 2-1. Kansas City took two from the Chicago White Sox 6-1 and 1-0 and Milwaukee edged Minnesota, 2-1.

The big guns for Washington were Dick Billings, who walloped a grand slam, and Frank Howard and Del Unser, who contributed three-run homers. Unser also had two doubles and a single.

Billings, a former third baseman and outfielder who converted to catching in the minors last season, was given a major share of the credit for the winning streak. The Senators haven't lost since he replaced Paul Casanova as the regular shortstop.

Rudy May, 4-5, recorded his first victory since May 8 as the Angels held off the A's, whose lead over the runner-up Royals in the American League West was sliced to 10 games.

Tony Conigliaro's sacrifice fly drove in California's first-inning run and Jim Spencer delivered the decisive tally with a double in the fifth against Jim "Catfish" Hunter, 11-7.

May checked the A's on six hits until Joe Rudi's leadoff double in the eighth but Dave

Revenge Motive Spurs LA

By THE UPI

Two decades haven't diminished the Dodgers' eye for revenge over the Giants after a playoff loss cost them the 1951 National League pennant.

It's exactly 20 years since Bobby Thomson's homer beat the Dodgers and Los Angeles is attempting to prevent a repeat performance by eliminating the Giants from division competi-

The road is arduous. But the Dodgers, 8½ games back of San Francisco in the West Division a month ago, now stand only 3½ games behind the Giants after Monday's 7-3 victory. Willie Davis, almost too young to remember that infamous day in '51, drove in three runs with Ryan, perhaps bugged by she-a bases loaded triple and Willie Mays' walk. Next Crawford hit his fourth homer of the season to pin Gaylord Perry with his eighth loss and extend the San Francisco hurler's losing string to six straight.

The victory was Los Angeles' fifth in a row and earned Don Sutton his ninth win in 15 decisions.

Pittsburgh defeated Chicago, 6-2; New York lost to Montreal, 2-1, and then came back for an 8-0 victory; Philadelphia edged Atlanta, 6-5; Houston clipped Cincinnati, 4-3; and San Diego edged St. Louis, 3-2, in other National League games.

Steve Blass matched his entire 1970 winning output by notching his 10th decision against Chicago. He aided his cause with a two-run single in the seventh inning. Manny Sanguillen's two-run single in the sixth inning capped a three-run Pirate uprising and gave Pittsburgh the lead for good. No hit ace Kenny Holtzman suffered his ninth loss.

Denny Doyle scored on Willie Montanez's eighth-inning sacrifice fly for the run that snapped Atlanta's six-game winning string. Montanez, Don Money and Roger Freed each drove in two runs for Philadelphia as Woody Fryman gained his fourth victory against three losses. Earl Williams socked a three-run homer for the Braves, his 13th circuit of the season.

Houston swept a four-game series from Cincinnati as Jim Wynn capped a sixth inning rally with a two-out, two-run single for the Astros' eighth victory in their last 10 starts. Wade Blasingame, with Fred Gladding's 10th save of the year, won his fifth game against seven losses. Wayne Simpson was charged with his second loss.

The Day Arnie's Army Defected to Super Mex

Trevino Now Golf's Most Dominant Figure

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — The tip-off came last week in the Canadian Open.

Arnold Palmer — The King, pro golf's all-time leading money winner, its most dynamic performer, the greatest drawing card the game has ever known — was making the turn and was about to hit his tee shot on No. 10.

An announcement was made on the adjacent first tee, first in French, then English.

"Now on the tee, the U.S. Open champion, Lee Trevino."

The vast gallery surrounding Palmer began to melt away. A dozen, a few score, began to amble away from Palmer toward Trevino's already huge gathering.

More fans joined them, the walk became a trot — and then it was a full-scale stampede, literally hundreds of people running pell-mell away from Palmer to watch the brash and cocky Trevino do his thing, play the game of golf as well as any man alive today.

He may not yet be king, or even aspire to the purple. His fire-engine red regalia of pay day Sunday and money green are more his colors.

"If the money's there, I'll play on a gravel road," he once said.

He's not Palmer. He's no Gary Player, the deadly intense, dedicated little South African. He's no Billy Casper, a quiet and sober surgeon, delicately cutting his way around a course.

And he's not Jack Nicklaus, the awesome blacksmith hammering out an iron coffin of defeat for his opponents.

He's Trevino, Super Mex. One of a kind. A rags to riches character who captured the imagination of the public as he grabbed the staid old game by the throat, shook it, worried it, flaunted tradition.

He twice passed up invitations to play in the Masters, one of the world's four major championships and a bastion of the game's Establishment.

Instead of competing on the storied acres of the Augusta National course, the 1970 leading money winner and Vardon Trophy champion played in something called the New Mexico Club pro championship on a desert layout near the Mexican border.

It's actions such as those that have helped make this 31-year-old Mexican-American grandson of a Dallas gravedigger one of the most popular performers the game has seen, a pied-piper luring deserters from Arnie's Army, pulling the crowds in the gate with his chatter and quips and color and a game that is unorthodox, a product of his days as a golf hustler, of the years scrambling for a buck in biting, sand-laden winds of the Southwest.

He's collecting prize money at a record clip.

His victory in the Canadian Open Sunday and the $30,000 first prize pushed his earnings for the year to $195,869. If he plays at anything approaching his present clip he'll easily surpass Ben Hogan's career earnings — $207,000 — in a single season.

He has won four times this year, more than any other player. And a half-dozen strokes could have given him four other titles. He lost once in a playoff and missed first place in three others by a total of four strokes.

He's the dominant figure in the game this year.

And he's one of the favorites for the title in this week's British Open.

Trevino arrived in England Monday morning after an all-night flight from Montreal. It will be his third national championship in four weeks.

But that's not particularly unusual on his hectic schedule. He won the U.S. Open in a playoff on a Monday in Ardmore, Pa., and last Tuesday morning was in Cleveland giving a clinic before driving out to the suburbs for a practice round.

He played the Cleveland Open that week, competed in a program in another state the next Monday, then to Montreal.

"I think the people like to see the United States Open championship play," he said. "I like to play. I like to play every day. Even if I'm taking some time off, I'll be out there beating balls. Might as well be making money at it."

"I'd like to break Casper's record of $205,000 prize winnings in a season. The more I play, the better chance I have."

At his current rate, he's got a very good chance to put his winnings in the $350,000-$400,000 bracket for the year.

STRICKEN KICKER — Dale Allen Eidson, a recently signed rookie placekicker for the San Diego Chargers, lost both his legs and part of his right hand in a fireworks explosion Sunday. The 24-year-old athlete, who was to report to the Charger training camp at Irvine, Calif., today, was setting off fireworks in a one-gallon can when the explosion occurred in the backyard of his parents' home. Several windows were shattered. Eidson's nephew, Clifford K. Eidson, 4, suffered head burns in the explosion and was treated at Concord, Calif., Community Hospital where Eidson remained in critical condition today. Mrs. Joyce Jacobson, night supervisor of nursing, said Eidson regained consciousness about 8:30 p. m. Monday and was able to talk. The type of fireworks Eidson was using had not yet been determined. By United Press International

How the New York Yankees could use that Syracuse homer power.

Danny Walton, Tony Solaita and Bobby Mitchell belted home runs for the Yankee farm team Monday as the Chiefs defeated Louisville, 6-4, and gained a one-game lead in the International League race.

Charleston knocked Tidewater out of a first place tie and deadlocked the Tides for second place by beating them, 3-2, in 11 innings. Charlie Howard's homer aided the Charleston triumph.

Rochester remained 2 1/2 games back of Syracuse with a homer-laden 10-8 victory over Toledo. Dick Coggins, Bobby Grich and Jim Hutto helped Bill Kirkpatrick earn his eighth win of the year.

Winnipeg ripped Richmond, 9-2, in the other I.L. game.

Van Kleeck then cleared the bases with a double and he came in when, after reaching third on a wild pitch, he stole home.

Marz struck out four and walked four for Kingston. Losing pitcher Gordon Pieruzzi struck out six but passed 12. Kingston is on the road again on Friday at Catskill.

Major League Players File Suit Over Radio-TV

NEW YORK (UPI) — The League Baseball Players have filed suit with the National Labor Relations Board that it has filed an unfair labor practices charge against the 24 major league clubs for failing to reveal information about the new radio and television contract with the National Broadcasting Company.

The players contend that they have traditionally shared in radio and television revenue and need information about the contract for their own negotiations with the club owners.

"Baseball's national radio and television arrangements have always been and continue to be an important basis of the negotiations between the parties with regard to the Major possession."

Marvin J. Miller, executive director of the Players Association, said: "What traditionally has belonged to the players, say the owners, should now be of no interest to them. While the owners, in their public relations statements are always talking about 'fairness' and 'integrity,' we have learned that those principles are invariably modified whenever money is involved. Nothing has changed."

He accused the owners of beginning negotiations by "challenging and insulting the players" and said they were not yet ready to treat the negotiations "with maturity, and entered into them in good faith, (so) problems could be worked out simply and quickly."

Craig Hubbell Roadmaster

MARBLETOWN
One former high school star and one current scholastic standout were the winners in Saturday's first annual Marblertown Road Race.

Craig Hubbell, late of Onteora High School, covered the distance of two and three tenths of a mile in 11:35 to take the honors in the overall event and in the open division.

Cabell, who in his sophomore season led Kingston High School's Young Lion cross country forces to a winning record, was second to Hubbell and first in the high school department in a time of 12:05.

Hubbell, a star for the Boiceville school in the mid-60's, has since stayed in shape competing in various area races including several YMCA affairs. The Woodstock resident found Marblertown's layout to his liking as he finished well in front of all challengers.

Cabell never seriously threatened Hubbell but finished a solid 12 seconds better than George Shurter of Pine Bush. It represented a big step for the Kingston runner since Shurter was one of the top stars in the Ulster County Athletic League.

Barry Hopkins of Rhinebeck was fourth overall and second in the open class in 12:42. Another Kingston High School harrier was next, Steve Schallenkamp in 12:52.

Dave Baxter of Walker Valley, an open entry, crossed the tape in 12:58. Schoolboy Brian Shurter of Pine Bush came home in 13:06 followed by Keith White of Kingston, a scholastic entrant, in 13:21. Dan Brown of Pine Bush, open, was ninth in 13:30 and Jayme Roach of Kingston, scholastic, was tenth in 13:37.

The run was a prelude to the town's annual Field Day. It started at the Kripplebush Fire House and proceeded down Pine Bush Road finishing at Marblertown Elementary School.

Off time was 9 a. m. on a perfect racing day. The weather was comfortably warm and there was little wind.

It was Dotzauer who shattered the futility of the scoreless duel with the game's first goal midway through the first half. He was to achieve the "hat trick" with two more goals—one at the 70-minute mark and the third of the day at five minutes before the end of the contest.

"The game statistics give a better picture of the game than the final score," said Henry Ingber, the Kickers' publicity director. "On the field it was a lot closer than the score would indicate."

Kingston Captures Battle of Merchants

KINGSTON, Rosendale Merchants in Dietz Stadium Monday.
Four hits and heads up base running by John Carter were not enough to prevent a 4-2 City despite Carter's efforts and the League baseball win for 12 strikeout pitching of Ed Kingston Merchants over Mercer.

Rosendale scored one in the bottom of the first when Carter singled, stole second and came all the way around on a throwing error.

Kingston tied it in the second as Tom Gallo walked, went to second on a passed ball, stole third, and scored on a Charlie Lay single.

Again Carter's running created a tally for Rosendale in the fifth. After John singled to start the inning, pitcher Pete Watzka tried to get Carter on a pickoff. But the toss was wild and John moved to third. When first baseman Lay tried to nab him, Carter scored.

However Kingston picked up two in the sixth to move in front. Watzka walked, stole second and scored on Gallo's single. Then Jack Watzka knocked in Gallo who had stolen second.

The winners added an insurance tally in the seventh when Rich Freeze reached on a two base error, moved to third on a fielder's choice, and scored on a wild pitch.

Watzka struck out 10 in gaining the win.

Donohue's Win Was Imperiled By Flag System

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Mark Donohue says the new caution flag system used at the inaugural Schaefer 500-mile automobile race could have cost him a heartbreaking defeat, but he likes it.

The 34-year-old Donohue won the Schaefer Saturday at the 2.5-mile Pocono International Raceway in one of the closest 500-mile finishes in U.S. Auto Club history.

Donohue, a baby-faced blond from Media, Pa., won by 1.2 seconds over Joe Leonard of San Jose, Calif. A. J. Foyt won third, Mario Andretti fourth, and Bill Vukovich Jr. fifth. The previous closest 500 finish was two-tenths of a second between first and second last September at Ontario, Calif.

The new caution flag system—for a 500-mile race—works this way. When the yellow flag goes up, the pace car comes out and leads the field around the track until the danger is over. This allows the cars to bunch behind the leader. Ordinarily when a yellow flag is raised the cars maintain their positions at their own pace.

Big Name at Wimbledon Was Evonne Goolagong

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) —Australia's John Newcombe may have won the men's singles crown in a hard fought, five-set final against Stan Smith of the United States.

Aussies Rod Laver and Roy Emerson may have won the men's doubles, Americans Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals may have taken the women's doubles, and Mrs. King may have teamed with Australia's Owen Davidson to capture a second honor, the mixed doubles crown.

But the big name at Wimbledon in 1971 was Evonne Goolagong.

The daughter of an Australian aborigine sheep-shearer, Miss Goolagong won the hearts of the 15,000 fans at center court by upsetting Mrs. King 6-4, 6-4 in the semi-final, and then coming back to unseed top-seeded Margaret Court 6-4, 6-1 in the finals.

Dr. Harris Flag Winner

KINGSTON 6 inches from the 19th cup.
Dr. William D. Harris used his three extra handicap strokes to fullest advantage to tie with place in The Twaalfskill Club's Flag tournament.

Dr. Harris, 17 handicap, and Saccoman, 14 handicap, both finished in the cup on the 19th hole.

The winners held a bare advantage over Mike Grouposo, Jr., who finished two inches from the 19th cup with his 10-stroke allotment.

E. Doug Hough placed fourth.

It was one of the largest win prices returned by a favorite in years in a major stakes race. Ack Ack scored as the favorite, too, in the $79,850 American Handicap at Hollywood. He was odds on, however, and paid only $3.20 in chalking up his sixth straight stakes victory by four lengths over Divide and Rule. Forward Gal, $12.40, won the $57,700 Monmouth Oaks at Monmouth while Knight In Armor $4.80 took the $56,200 Stars and Stripes Handicap at Arlington, Son Ange, $7.40, was declared the winner of the $58,850 Firecracker Handicap at Liberty Bell Park after Well Mannered was disqualified from first position and placed second for interference in the stretch. Irish Sweeper, $23.20, beat the 1-2 favorite Cohasset Tribe, by 2 1/4 lengths in the $28,250 Dover Stakes at Delaware Park. ## 2 Are Drowned In Lake Tragedy

BALLSTON LAKE, N. Y.
(UPI) — A teen-aged boy who disappeared after falling into Ballston Lake from a boat, and one of several divers called in to search for the youth, drowned Sunday.

Saratoga County sheriff's deputies identified the dead as Jonathan Whittaker, 15, of Delmar, Albany County, and Katie Wood, about 25, of Ballston.

Whittaker was acting as observer in a boat which was towing a water skier. Police said the skier dropped off and Whittaker apparently fell overboard when the boat made a fast turn.

Mrs. Wood and her husband, Navy Lt. Charles Wood, were among a group of divers participating in the search for the teen-ager's body.

Deputies said Mrs. Wood disappeared about an hour after entering the water. Both bodies were recovered.

Authorities said Wood was stationed at the West Milton test site. Whittaker's address was listed as 4 Flint Drive.

Your Horoscope

Wednesday July 7, 1971

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to get all small duties out of the way to clear the decks for much more important things which will develop shortly and will put you in a better position. Look into matters pertaining to utilities, sales and purchases of all kinds.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good day to get home or place of business in as good order as possible for efficient functioning. Co-workers have good suggestions. Follow them willingly and quickly.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A good morning for visiting beautician or barber in preparation for entertainments ahead. Make the right appointments now. Don't forget to pay your important bills first.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get home in order before you go back to work in earnest for the outstanding success ahead.

that will follow the holiday rush. Buy whatever is needed to make your dwelling more attractive and smoother running. Don't rush things, though.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Ideal day for buying or selling. Make and keep appointments with everyone who can be of assistance to you and vice versa. You need to be a more positive person.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make those small repairs around the house that will add to efficiency and will prevent greater damage and increased costs that will develop if neglected. Analyze financial position carefully. Improve your budget.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Morning is a good time to take those health treatments you need to become more vibrant. Plan how to entertain more hospitably in the future and invite people to whom you owe favors. Avoid extravagance, though.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) An early start on all those duties ahead of you is necessary if you are to plow through them efficiently. Don't neglect personal tasks. Then quietly do whatever you most like to do.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have been neglecting to see good friends because you have been too busy, so make amends now. Go out to the amusements that give you pleasure, also. Stop feeling so sorry for yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Concentrate on the various career or civic matters that intrigue you and bring the right results. Talk over with a higher-up ways you can improve your public image. Follow advice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Start studying subjects that will help to make your life richer and more rewarding, give you a chance to travel and be more independent. Making new friends can prove to be most worthwhile. Pick them well.

you had better teach early to give attention to the important issues of life first and then bother only with whatever details are necessary, or your child could miss the bus for counting his change too carefully. With such guidance, this chart could become an extremely successful one. A fine writer here, also.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for August is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast (The Daily Freeman), Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Barbs

By PHIL PASTORET

What would improve a lot of books is having the covers much closer together.

It's nice to be retired, if you don't have to shell out for the new shoes for the family heap.

No, Gwendolyn, "early retirement" doesn't mean being in bed before 9 o'clock.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

FOURSOME (Q.) Claudie and I have liked each other since grade school. We like Cathy and Peggy, too, but not as much as each other. The truth is that we have turned into a foursome, and at age 16 four girls is too many.

Claudie and I can't do a thing together. Cathy and Peggy always have to be there, too. I believe we could go out with the boys we like if Cathy and Peggy weren't always around.

How can we explain to Cathy and Peggy that we don't want to be a clan any longer?—Haunted in Mount Holly, N. J.

(A.) Most clans eventually end up in a split. This is because clans are formed—consciously or unconsciously—to protect people who think they are not strong enough to go it alone, and most of us, as we grow more mature, decide we can make it on our own.

The result is a split, in a split, someone's feelings always get hurt.

Since my teen years, I've recognized that clans were not for me. But I have also recognized the right of those who feel the need to be members of a clan.

You have outgrown that need. Your only recourse now is to be honest with the two girls you want to drop, explaining that your clan days are over. But remember that a group of two can sometimes be more limiting than a group of four.

NAMES: (Q.) Do you send personal replies without printing them in your column? Do you keep the names of persons writing in confidence?—No Name Given in Birmingham, Ala.

(A.) The thousands of letters to Teen Forum are handled in the strictest confidence. When a letter is used in the column, the name of the writer is not used unless he or she requests it.

First names sometimes used to make a complicated question or answer clearer are not the real names of those involved.

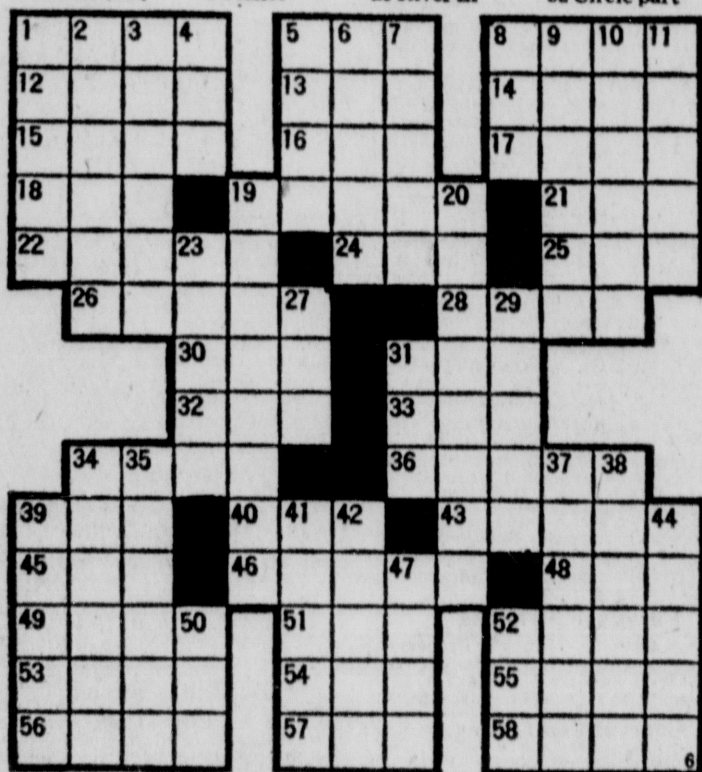

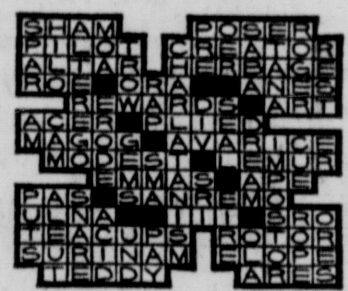

Each letter is personally answered provided the writer sends a stamped, self-addressed envelope with it.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

War Action Dips Into Another Lull

SAIGON (AP) — Typhoon Harriet's winds of more than 100 miles an hour curtailed operations in Indochina today as war action slipped into another lull.

Moving in from the South China Sea, the storm passed and the demilitarized zone about 100 miles southeast of the DMZ, all the way to the North Vietnamese city of Vinh, 145 miles north of the DMZ.

knocked down power lines, disrupting electric service.

Associated Press photographer Neal Ulveich, traveling from Quang Tri south to Da Nang, said there was considerable flooding in the coastal region and the roofs of houses were blown off.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported only three scattered clashes in which government forces killed 39 enemy soldiers without suffering any casualties of their own.

Although the lull comes in the wake of the new Viet Cong peace proposal made at the Paris talks last Thursday, sources said it was too soon to tell whether the decline in enemy attacks is a signal from Hanoi that it is ready to negotiate in earnest.

Even before the Viet Cong's peace proposal last Thursday, U.S. intelligence officers predicted that North Vietnamese attacks along the DMZ would drop off. They said the enemy would pull back to regroup and receive supplies, then strike again later in the summer.

The pattern has been for the Communist forces to strike hard in a particular region for several days or weeks, then pull out. Their ability to keep up sustained attacks is limited because their supply lines are extended.

In Phnom Penh, Cambodia's National Assembly adopted a $340 million budget for 1971 with 59 per cent earmarked for the war against the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese. The total expenditure is $89.1 million more than last year's.

Extradition of Two Still in Question

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—An Argentine judge has turned an American Navy veteran and his Guatemalan girlfriend over to a five-judge panel to be tried for hijacking a Braniff jetliner from San Antonio, Tex., to Buenos Aires.

Federal judge Luis Guerello turned the case of Robert Lee Jackson, 36, of Maryville, Tenn., and Ligia Lucrécia Sanchez Ancilla over to a panel of five federal judges. No date was set for the trial, but if convicted air piracy carries a sentence of from 3 to 15 years.

Still in question was whether the pair might be extradited to the United States or Mexico. Both countries want them for the hijacking, but officials have not yet filed extradition requests.

Jackson and Miss Sanchez hijacked the Braniff 707 Friday as it was preparing to land in San Antonio on a flight from Mexico City. The hijack lasted 44 hours and took them 7,500 miles. They went to Monterrey, Mexico, Lima, Rio de Janeiro and finally gave up Sunday morning in Buenos Aires.

Braniff gave them a $100,000 ransom in Monterrey for release of 100 other passengers aboard the plane, and the crew as changed in Lima. None of the crew nor passengers were injured.

An Argentine foreign ministry source said "we have not received any request from the United States or Mexico to take them back." He added that if and when such a request is made "it will take some time to form a decision."

He denied reports that an extradition request from the United States had been rejected.

Jackson and Miss Sanchez, 23, were moved from central Buenos Aires to the Buenos Province Jail under heavy guard Monday. Miss Sanchez was smiling and wearing sun glasses. Jackson was handcuffed, but held up his hands and flashed a "V" sign for photographer.

Slower Withdrawal Predicted in July

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. troops have left Vietnam faster than was projected last spring when President Nixon fixed his next withdrawal goal. But Pentagon sources predict a somewhat slower pace in July, August and September.

These sources say those will be critical months in which the North Vietnamese may attempt major attacks in the region just south of the demilitarized zone, just under 14,300 men a month. The net effect of withdrawal almost 28,600 for May and fluctuations over the coming June.

But actual withdrawals in five months should bring the U.S. troop level in Vietnam down to about 175,000 by Dec. 1, the sources said. That would be some 9,000 below Nixon's announced goal for that date.

The withdrawal rate conceivably could be ordered increased within that period if the new enemy peace proposal breaks in the negotiating deadlock, or if North Vietnamese forces prove unable to mount a serious offensive.

Nixon has promised another latest withdrawal or announcement Nov. 15 setting a der calls for bringing home further pullout objective. As he 100,000 more American troops did in April, the President is between May 1 and Dec. 1, expected to step up the withdrawal pace another notch.
